Ouachita City Man Killed In Auto-Truck Collision

Sterlington Intersection Crash Scene

Retired Carpenter, S. V. Vick, Dies Of Crushed Skull

A 67-year-old Ouachita City retired carpenter was crushed to death instantly about 3:45 p.m. yesterday in a near head-on auto-truck collision at the Monroe, Sterlington, and Bastrop intersection, 12 miles north of Monroe.

The man was identified by Louisiana state troopers as S. V. Vick of Ouachita City. Troopers said he was driver of the auto involved in the collision.

Driver of the large dump truck involved in the smashup was identified as Edward O. Pennell, 35, Route 1, West Monroe. He was unhurt in the accident.

Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita coroner, said Vick died of a crushed skull and chest.

Vick, retired carpenter, was enroute to his Ouachita City home from another house he owned at 112 Nat. street, in West Monroe. Relatives stated the man had been "fixing up" the small West Monroe house following its recent burning.

A rake, hoe and other implements had been using in an afternoon's yardwork were found in the completely demolished death car.

Troopers said the vehicles hit together with a "terrific impact" at the intersection. The front wheels of the dirt loaded dump truck were ripped away with axle intact and were resting underneath the overturned vehicle.

The 10 yards of dirt being hauled by Pennell was strewn near the entrance to Highway 2.

Officers stated Pennell was traveling toward Bastrop on Highway 2 and the auto driven by Vick, headed west had started to turn into Highway 2.

The impact of the crash smashed Vick's vehicle dash and steering wheel into his chest and face, authorities stated. His vehicle came to rest on the roadside of the Sterlington cutoff after being smashed across the intersection.

Vick's workhat, crumpled and grimy was found in the blood-soaked seat of the death auto. Funeral services for the native Mississippian were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Monroe.

Allies Removing Truce Inspectors From South Korea

SEOUL, Saturday, June 9 (AP)—The Allies began flying neutralization truce inspectors out of South Korea today in a move bitterly protested by the Communists.

There was no word of resistance from the Communist Polish and Czech members of the four-nation truce supervisory commission. Swiss and Swedish members have favored junking the inspection setup.

Gen. I. D. White, U.S. Far East Army commander, announced the 21 truce inspectors were being removed in U.N. aircraft to the neutral zone between South and Communist North Korea.

First to leave were three Czech and two Swedish inspectors from Seoul's port of Inchon. They flew to Panmunjom in U.S. Army helicopters. Other inspectors followed from the two other ports from which they have operated—Kusan on the west coast and Pusan on the southeast coast.

"It was very smooth, there have been no incidents," said a U.N. Command spokesman. "The teams were informed of the move about 7 a.m. today. They were friendly and cooperative."

Senate Group Okays Ouachita Channel Funds

$130,000 Approved For Planning Study On 9-Foot Channel

WASHINGTON, June 8 (Special)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today approved the House allocation of $130,000 in planning money for the deepening of the Ouachita River to a nine-foot channel.

In addition, the committee approved $300,000 in planning money for the Overton-River waterway, almost certainly assuring that some money will be available for the project in fiscal 1957.

In earmarking the money for these projects and others, the full committee endorsed the action of its public works subcommittee headed by Louisiana Sen. Allen J. Ellender. Aiding the senator in the fight for the money has been the state's junior senator, Russell B. Long.

The House appropriations committee had failed to include money for the waterway in its public works appropriations bill and an attempt by Rep. Overton Brooks of Shreveport to secure adoption of an amendment containing the requested allocation failed flatly on the House floor.

The bill reported by the Senate committee now must go before the full Senate for debate. It is considered highly unlikely that any attempt will be made on the Senate floor to have the Ouachita river or the Overton waterway money stricken from the bill.

When the bill is passed by the Senate, it and the House version will go to Senate-House conferees for the ironing out of differences. Since Senator Ellender will be expected to retain money for the Louisiana projects.

The Senate committee raised to $550,000 the allocation for Red river bank stabilization. The House (Continued on Fifth Page)

Ordered South Cleveland Exiles Negro Widow And Eight Dependents

CLEVELAND, June 8 (AP)—A Negro mother who said she came to Cleveland because she couldn't support her family in the South was forced to leave town today with her eight dependents, ranging in age from 11 days to 17 years.

Under a court ruling, the family was put on a train with instructions to return to Livingston, Ala., because the children are not eligible for relief aid under Ohio law.

The mother, Martha Winston, 40, pleaded with a Juvenile Court judge yesterday for permission to stay here, even though she had no job and said her family hadn't eaten in two days.

But Judge Albert A. Wolman said the exile ruling was the only way he could be sure the children would be fed. The family is eligible for relief funds in Sumter County, Ala., welfare officials here said.

In Ohio, only persons who have lived in this state for a year are eligible for relief.

The Negro separated from her husband five years ago, said she came here four years ago because she couldn't support her family in Alabama. She said she brought her children here last October "because I didn't want them to grow up in the South."

Her dependents are seven children and an 11-day-old infant born (Continued on Fifth Page)

Two Farmers Gin First 1956 Bale

HARLINGEN, Tex., June 8 (AP)—The nation's first bale of cotton of 1956, produced by two Mission, Tex., farmers, roared into Harlingen at 4:23 p.m. today in the back of a pickup truck escorted by police.

It was grown by G. A. Bingham, 45, and Bill Burke, 28. Its unofficial weight was listed as 475 pounds.

Only minutes behind was a second bale grown by a former winner of the annual first bale sweepstakes, Ray Barnick, 45, also of Mission.

The first bale is worth $2,500 in prizes and guarantees.

Welfare Board Raises July Old-Age Pension Checks To $65 A Month

BATON ROUGE, June 8 (AP)—The Louisiana Welfare Board today increased old age assistance payments to $65 a month, starting in July, appointed a new director.

Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, favored by Gov. Earl K. Long, was named director to replace Edward Dameron who resigned. Mrs. Parker headed the Department of Commerce and Industry under Long from 1948 to 1952.

In reorganization action, the board elected W. H. Kilpatrick, Jonesboro automobile dealer appointed by Long, as its new chairman. Kilpatrick replaces James C. Bolton, Alexandria, who was reappointed to the board by the governor.

The change in old age assistance raises payments to individuals from $60 to $65 a month and to couples from $110 to $120. It also permits $12 a month outside income without affecting welfare status. The present limit is $7.

A 1955 legislative resolution authorized the old age assistance boost. It permitted the increase to $65 when the welfare fund surplus exceeded 15 million dollars.

At the beginning of June, the surplus was almost 18.4 million.

Total old age assistance payments have been averaging $3.3 million a month for the past year. (Continued on Fourteenth Page)

House Approves Over $1 Billion In Foreign Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The House voted tentatively tonight for a $3,800,000,000 foreign aid program, cut more than a billion below what President Eisenhower asked.

However, Eisenhower won an important victory in the late stages when the House rejected a proposal to cut Communist Yugoslavia out of the program.

The House put off a formal roll call vote on the bill until Monday. Strong House forces were in favor of shutting off all U.S. aid to Yugoslavia because of Marshal Tito's reconciliation with Russia.

The administration agrees the Yugoslav situation should be re-evaluated but wants to avoid any drastic measures meanwhile. Leaders of both parties in the House supported this position and succeeded in making basic changes in an amendment by Rep. Edna F. Kelly (D-NY) to deal Tito out of the foreign aid program entirely. The action is subject to reconsideration on a later roll call vote.

On a teller vote of 123-95 the House agreed to amend the Kelly amendment so that aid to Yugoslavia may continue providing the President finds:

1. "That there has been no change in the Yugoslavia policies on the basis of which assistance has been furnished to Yugoslavia in the past," and

2. "That it is in the interests of (Continued on Fourteenth Page)

Ukrainian Rebels Attack Red Train, Capture Weapons

VIENNA, June 8 (UP)—An anti - Communist underground in the Ukraine wrecked a Soviet troop train last month and made off with quantities of arms and ammunition into a forest, diplomatic sources said Friday.

They said secret police managed to arrest a number of rebels. It was the second such anti-Kremlin incident in the Soviet Union in a week and the third in as many months.

The sources said reports received via Moscow told of an attack by Ukrainian nationalists on the train near Shepetovka on the night of May 20. Shepetovka lies between Lvov and Kiev, areas known to be centers of anti-Communist resistance.

Team Of Four Doctors Picked For Operation

Illness Diagnosed As Inflammation Of Lower Intestine

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Saturday, June 9—UP—President Eisenhower underwent an "exploratory" operation early Saturday for a partial intestinal block suffered Friday morning.

WASHINGTON, June 9 Saturday — Physicians decided early today to perform an immediate exploratory operation on President Eisenhower to relieve "the cause" of an obstruction in the lower intestine.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters that he expected the operation to begin "within the next 15 minutes."

He said a four-man operating team of surgeons, with two other physicians in attendance, arranged to perform the exploratory surgery on the third floor of the main building at Walter Reed Army hospital.

Hagerty said, in announcing the decision:

"It is the considered opinion of the physicians in attendance that since the previously mentioned obstruction in the terminal portion of the small intestine has persisted, an exploratory operation is necessary."

"This operation will be undertaken immediately."

Hagerty said, in response to questions, that at no time had he heard any mention by the attending physicians of cancer.

As to what an exploratory operation is, Hagerty said "it is an operation to find the cause of the obstruction and to relieve that cause."

The decision to operate came about 25 hours after he was stricken in his White House bedroom. Yesterday a fever took him. (Continued on Second Page)

Stocks Take Dip On News Of Ike's Latest Setback

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's illness jolted the stock market today into its worst decline since Oct. 10 but a strong rally near the close trimmed losses.

An estimated loss of 3½ billion dollars was sustained in the quoted value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60-stocks fell $3 to $177. Last Oct. 10 it fell $4.60 in the third sharp market break following Eisenhower's heart attack Sept. 24.

Trading volume today swelled to 3,630,000 shares, the biggest day since Feb. 29 when Eisenhower said he would be a candidate for re-election and 3,900,000 shares were traded in profit-taking following an anticipatory rise.

Prices of leading issues were down about $1 to $3 at the close. Earlier, however, pivotal stocks were hammered down as much as $7 a share.

The high-speed ticker tape fell behind on four separate occasions. The first three were selling waves. The last was a recovery surge.

The heaviest trading came around midday when news came that the President would be taken to the hospital. Prices took their most intense beating of the session and the ticker tape lagged behind floor transactions by five minutes.

Specialist Says Disease Affecting President May Be Difficult To Overcome

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—A Washington intestinal specialist said today President Eisenhower's partial obstruction of the intestine could be due to a form of ileitis of unknown cause. He said this is "awfully difficult to get over, with or without surgery"—although not necessarily incompatible with remaining at work.

On the other hand, the specialist said various medical and surgical clinics report that between 15 and 35 per cent of all patients afflicted with the ailment "enjoy complete recovery" as a result of surgical or nonsurgical treatment. The rest are subject to recurrent attacks.

Asked by a reporter if the condition, if recurrent, would be incompatible with the job of president of the United States, he said he did not know, "but one of my patients for this condition runs a big business involving considerable mental and physical strain and another is a doctor."

"When they get recurrent attacks," he said, "they go to bed for a short period under strict medical supervision until the obstruction subsides. He added that attacks could be "days, weeks, months, up to years apart."

He said that in general at least, continuance of work under such conditions would not necessarily be incompatible, even if the condition were superimposed on a previous coronary attack, such as Eisenhower has had.

The doctor declined the use of his name, but he is an official technical information source provided by the District of Columbia Medical Society for newsmen.

He said the particular kind of ileitis to which he referred—inflammation of the lower part of the small intestine—is extremely rare in a person of the President's age, being largely confined to younger people. Eisenhower is 65.

"But," he said, "if the President's physicians have the diagnosis as ileitis—and a partial obstruction of the small bowel is involved the only form it could be is what we call nonspecific terminal ileitis or regional ileitis."

The word "obstruction" does not mean there is an obstruction in the intestine. The obstruction is caused by the wall of the intestine being inflamed and swollen, which interferes with its normal functioning.

The specialist said two courses of treatment are possible—surgical and nonsurgical.

"We don't like to operate on these patients unless the partial obstruction persists, or there is danger of other complication such as a rupture of the intestine or an abscess," he said.

"In such cases, operation is often mandatory."

He said the reason that doctors like to avoid surgery is that sometimes the surgery might be followed by "a complication called a fistula or an opening in the bowel aside from the place where the obstruction was removed and repaired."

He also said that even if the obstruction subsides without surgery, it's possible for an obstruction to recur in the same place or another place. This is sometimes true even if surgery is performed.

The doctor said the adherence of the President's physicians to a diagnosis of ileitis would "rule out any thought that the partial obstruction of the small intestine could be due to a benign or malignant tumor."

TELLS OF PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS—Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty, right, briefs newsmen at the White House after the announcement that President Eisenhower had been taken ill, suffering from an "upset stomach and headache." Listening to his remarks is Associated Press reporter Marvin L. Arrowsmith, plaid tie, who was the only reporter present when Hagerty first announced the illness. Major Surgery

brought to the hospital from the White House 4½ miles away, in an ambulance.

The commanding general of the Army Hospital, Dr. Leonard D. Heaton, and three others comprised what Hagerty called "the operating team."

The other three are Dr. Isador Ravid, professor of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, Philadelphia; Dr. Robert T. Gants, chief of the Walter Reed department of surgery, and Dr. Max D. Smith, assistant chief of surgery at the hospital.

Hagerty said the president would be given "a general anesthesia." He said he assumed an anesthesiologist would be in the room in addition to the six doctors he named.

He said he had "no idea" how long the surgery would take.

Thirteen physicians held a consultation early today to determine whether an operation should be performed.

Hagerty told reporters at a news conference that the consultation had begun about midnight.

The news that Eisenhower had again fallen ill stirred great and widespread concern. Some apprehension arose that perhaps he had had another heart attack such as the one which laid him up for weeks last fall and threatened to remove him from the political picture.

But all day long, the medical reports relayed by Hagerty laid great emphasis on the statement that this is not a heart case. Hagerty said the doctors wanted to underscore that.

Reporters asked Hagerty to ask the doctors flatly whether it would be proper to call Eisenhower's condition "critical." He came back with the report soon after 5 p.m. EDT that they said it "would be wrong to use the word 'critical' at this time."

As for using the word "serious," Hagerty said he would have to wait for further word, but that he himself was not using any adjectives.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist and one of four civilian physicians and surgeons being called in, said before flying to Washington that his information would not lead him to "feel the President is too sick."

However, Dr. White did speak of it as "an acute illness that's got to be handled."

Hagerty was told that Dr. White had been quoted as saying that the President faces major surgery. Hagerty at first replied:

"I would not know one way or the other. I will await the doctors' decision."

Then, noting that three surgeons have been called into the case, Hagerty said that surgery "is a possibility."

The civilian surgeon consultants are Dr. John H. Lyons, who practices in Washington; Dr. Brian Blades, professor at George Washington University Medical School here, and Dr. Isador Ravid, professor of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

Mrs. Eisenhower and her son, Maj. John Eisenhower, were at the hospital, a quiet but huge and sprawling group of ivy-covered buildings in northwest Washington near the Maryland line. It looks much like a college campus.

The President's youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of the Pennsylvania State University, came here at 6 p.m.

The original diagnosis at the President's case, by White House physician Howard M. Snyder, was ileitis, or an inflammation of the lower section of the small intestine. A later Walter Reed bulletin in which Snyder participated said this was confirmed by examination.

Hagerty was asked whether inflammation in this spot is normally accompanied by an obstruction. He said the doctors said on that point: "Not necessarily, but that it is a possibility."

He said Eisenhower vomited several times before it was decided to take him to the hospital, but not afterward. He said the President seemed to be in good spirits, and had taken several catnaps during the day.

Hagerty related that about 12:45 this morning, Mrs. Eisenhower called Dr. Snyder, and told him the President had some stomach discomfort.

Dr. Snyder suggested a small dose of milk of magnesia.

About 1:20 a.m., the President was still complaining of discomfort, Mrs. Eisenhower told Dr. Snyder in a second call. Snyder then came to the White House about 2 a.m. and stayed.

Doctors in attendance at Walter Reed included Col. Francis Pruitt, chief of medicine who was called in early today to the White House by Dr. Snyder; Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commandant of the hospital; Brig. Gen. Jack W. Schwartz, deputy commander; Col. Robert T. Gants, chief of the department of surgery; Col. Elmer A. Lodmell, chief of X-ray, and Lt. Col. Max Smith, assistant chief of surgery.

Dr. Thomas Mattingly, Walter Reed heart specialist who was on a trip was found at Chertaw, S. C., by state police and arranged to fly back from Columbia. Gen. Heaton also was out of town at the time, but was flown back from Gloucester, Va.

Hagerty, at 3:30 p.m., in his third major announcement of the day, read to reporters at the hospital this statement by Drs. Snyder and Heaton:

"The President arrived at the hospital at 1:40 p.m., and was taken to the third floor suite in Ward 1. Examinations including X-ray of the abdomen, laboratory tests and electro-cardiogram were made.

"All studies confirm the original diagnosis of an attack of ileitis.

"The X-ray of the abdomen revealed a partial obstruction in the terminal portion of the small intestine (ileum).

"The electro-cardiogram showed no change.

"Another electro-cardiogram will be taken this afternoon.

"The President's blood pressure is 126 over 80. His pulse is 90. His respiration is 20. His temperature is normal."

Hagerty amplified the no-change report on the cardiogram by saying it meant there appeared no change in the President's heart since his examination in mid-May. At that time the doctors reported the President had made a normal and good recovery from the damage done his heart by the attack last Sept. 24.

Hagerty was unable to say what might have caused the obstruction the doctors reported. He said Eisenhower had similar, but not identical, attacks in 1949 and 1953.

Impact On Campaign Seen

President's New Illness Certain To Affect Race

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—How ever serious or slight it may turn out to be, President Eisenhower's latest illness can be expected to have an impact on the 1956 campaign wars.

Even if the President recovers swiftly, the issue of his health might very likely become an increased talking point in the campaign. How it might affect the attitudes of run of the mine voters is anybody's guess. Up to now they have been pretty much inclined to ignore presidential health as an election issue.

If the illness should prove severe and prolonged, there would inevitably arise the big question as to whether Eisenhower would stay in the presidential race. He has said, and repeated, that he would not remain in the presidency, if he felt he wasn't physically up to handling it, and would so inform the people instantly.

Of course, there have been no indications in the last few hours that the President was even so much as toying with the idea of bowing out.

If it ever should come to that, the door would be open for a historic battle royal among Republican aspirants for the nomination. Among such men as Vice President Nixon, Sen. Williams Knowland of California, Gov. Christian

A. Herter of Massachusetts and others.

Similarly it would enhance the strategic value of the recent string of victories Adlai Stevenson has hung up in Democratic presidential primaries. His wins in Oregon, Florida and California have put him in the forefront of Democratic contenders.

That would be a spot of more attractive hue, if the President ever should withdraw, since all the strategists figure Eisenhower would be tougher to beat than any other Republican.

For the moment, many Democrats put aside politics and joined Republicans in expressions of hope that the President's intestinal ailment wasn't serious and that he would be back on the job quickly. Such expressions came, for example, from former President Truman in Paris, Stevenson in California, and assorted Democratic senators here.

At headquarters of the Democratic National Committee there was no comment. It has been Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler who has laid most emphasis on the presidential health as a major issue for the campaign. And there was no indication that Butler would be inclined to ease up now.

Vice President Leads Prayer For Ike's Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Vice President Nixon joined tonight in a silent prayer for a swift recovery for President Eisenhower. Then he said he feels in his heart that the President is "going to be back on the firing line just very, very soon."

Nixon spoke at a dinner of Young Republicans. He didn't allude at length to Eisenhower's latest illness but offered instead what he called some "practical observations" on the political scene.

He said it has been mentioned before but the Republicans "have proved that you can have prosperity without war and progress without socialization."

The occasion was a "graduation" banquet for some 240 Young Republican from 41 states and the District of Columbia who have been attending a five-day GOP leadership training school.

Looking a bit tired, Nixon left the banquet room partway through the dinner to take a call from presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, at Walter Reed Hospital, where Eisenhower is a patient. He told reporters that the chief executive was progressing satisfactorily and then relayed the same word to the Young Republicans. They broke into loud cheers.

Nixon said he knew the President would want him to say those present, on his behalf, "I'll be all right."

At the opening of the affair Nixon and all the others bowed their heads in a moment of silent prayer for the quick and complete recovery of the chief executive.

Getting into the practical aspects of politics, Nixon noted that the primary elections are on now and said he didn't know if they had "proved too much" about the people's choice among Democrats.

"I don't think," he said, "that they prove the people like Democrat better than another think what they prove is that to this point they like President Eisenhower better than any Democrat."

The prayer for Eisenhower led by the Rev. Frederic B. Irlis, chaplain of the Senate.

Defense Rests In Conspiracy Trial Of Truman Aides

ST. LOUIS, June 8 —UP—The defense in the trial of T. Lamar Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly rested Friday after Caudle denied he tried to stop a federal grand jury from indicting a tax evader whose case he and Connelly are accused of trying to fix.

Caudle finished two days on the witness stand in which he denied, at times vehemently, all government charges that he conspired with Connelly and Harry I. Schwimmer to allow the tax evader to escape criminal trial.

He told the jury he rejected a proffered oil royalty from Schwimmer, attorney for Irving Sachs, and told him to return it to the seller. He said he sent Ellis Slack, a Justice Department attorney, to St. Louis to help the grand jury.

Special Assistant Attorney General Wyllys Newcomb charged in cross-examination that Caudle wanted the grand jury "to close up shop and go home."

Caudle, former assistant attorney general in charge of the tax

division until 1951, said he "cut him to ribbons" when Schwimmer offered the royalty but later their relations were cordial because "I can't stay mad at anybody."

Connelly, White House aid to former President Truman, also denied the government charges in his own testimony earlier this week.

The defense, meanwhile, claimed a major victory as a result of Federal Judge Rubey M. Hulen's stipulation he would charge the jury only regarding the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government of the services of Caudle and Connelly.

SNAKEBITE VICTIM—Miss Hazel Temple, 19, is shown in a Winnsboro hospital Friday morning with her cousin, Floyd Reeves, 16, after he helped save her life following a rattlesnake bite on her leg Wednesday afternoon while blackberry picking. First reported in very serious condition, Miss Temple yesterday was "much improved" according to her physician. Floyd applied a tourniquet to Hazel's leg within minutes after the bite and got her out of the woods, although she was unconscious, by carrying her on a tractor and about a mile on his back when the tractor became stuck in mud. Hazel had shot the four-foot, three-rattler snake three times with her .16 gauge shotgun before fainting. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Ex-Convict Hunted For Slaying Three In Chicago Tavern

CHICAGO, June 8 —UP—Police squads combed the city Friday for an ex-convict with a "grudge" who walked into a jazz spot with a shotgun and killed three persons, two of whom covered on the floor begging for mercy.

Witnesses identified the gunman as Lawrence Neumann, 28, known to police as a minor hoodlum who once served a prison term for robbery.

The assailant entered the Miraculous bar, a night spot which features a Dixieland jazz band, shortly after 2 a.m. Friday and announced he was "going to kill everyone in the place."

Max Epstein, 54, whose brother owns the cocktail lounge, dropped behind the bar and begged for mercy as the gunman approached him. Witnesses said Neumann stepped up on the bar rail, leaned over the bar and shot Epstein to death with two blasts from his pump-action shotgun.

The gunmen then turned on Lois M. Gates, 28, pretty operator of the lounge's dice game, who fell to the floor screaming for her life. She was killed with a blast in the neck.

The owner, Mickey Epstein, 38, had dropped from sight in a booth. Other patrons were sprawled on the floor. The gunman whirled toward the door just as a news vendor attracted by the shots, John Keller, 49, ran in.

Keller was pushed back out the door and gunned down on the sidewalk. The assailant fled down an alley and eluded a police dragnet in the area.

Mickey Epstein identified the slayer as Neumann. Police said the ex-convict apparently held a grudge against the Epsteins because they had him arrested for brawling in the bar May 9. Charges against him later were dropped.

Specialist Says Disease Affecting President May Be Difficult To Overcome

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—A Washington intestinal specialist said today President Eisenhower's partial obstruction of the intestine could be due to a form of ileitis of unknown cause. He said this is "awfully difficult to get over, with or without surgery"—although not necessarily incompatible with remaining in work.

On the other hand, the specialist said various medical and surgical clinics report that between 15 and 35 per cent of all patients afflicted with the ailment "enjoy complete recovery" as a result of surgical or nonsurgical treatment. The rest are subject to recurrent attacks.

Asked by a reporter if the condition, if recurrent, would be incompatible with the job of president of the United States, he said he did not know, "but one of my patients for this condition runs a big business involving considerable mental and physical strain and another is a doctor."

"When they get recurrent attacks," he said, "they go to bed for a short period under strict medical supervision until the obstruction subsides. He added that attacks could be "days, weeks, months, up to years apart."

He said that in general at least, continuance of work under such conditions would not be incompatible, even if the condition were superimposed on a previous coronary attack, such as Eisenhower has had.

The doctor declined the use of his name, but he is an official technical information source provided by the District of Columbia Medical Society for newsmen.

He said the particular kind of ileitis to which he referred—inflammation of the lower part of the small intestine—is extremely rare in a person of the President's age, being largely confined to younger people. Eisenhower is 65.

"But," he said, "if the President's physicians give the diagnosis as ileitis—and a partial obstruction of the small bowel is involved—the only form it could be is what we call nonspecific terminal ileitis or regional ileitis."

The word "obstruction" does not mean there is an obstruction in the intestine. The obstruction is caused by the wall of the intestine being inflamed and swollen, which interferes with its normal functioning.

The specialist said two courses of treatment are possible—surgical and nonsurgical.

"We don't like to operate on these patients unless the partial obstruction persists, or there is danger of other complication such as a rupture of the intestine or an abscess," he said.

"In such cases, operation is often mandatory."

He said the reason that doctors like to avoid surgery is that sometimes the surgery might be followed by "a complication called a fistula or an opening in the bowel aside from the place where the obstruction was removed and remained."

He also said that even if the obstruction subsides without surgery, it's possible for an obstruction to recur in the same place or another place. This is sometimes true even if surgery is performed.

The doctor said the adherence of the President's physicians to a diagnosis of ileitis would "rule out any thought that the partial obstruction of the small intestine could be due to a benign or malignant tumor."

TELLS OF PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS—Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty, right, briefs newsmen at the White House after the announcement that President Eisenhower had been taken ill, suffering from an "upset stomach and headache." Listening to his remarks is Associated Press reporter Marvin L. Arrowsmith, plaid tie, who was the only reporter present when Hagerty first announced the illness. Major Surgery

brought to the hospital from the White House 4½ miles away, in an ambulance.

The commanding general of the Army Hospital, Dr. Leonard D. Heaton, and three others comprised what Hagerty called "the operating team."

The other three are Dr. Isador Ravidin, professor of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, Philadelphia; Dr. Robert T. Gants, chief of the Walter Reed department of surgery, and Dr. Max D. Smith, assistant chief of surgery at the hospital.

Hagerty said the president would be given "a general anesthesia." He said he assumed an anesthetist would be in the room in addition to the six doctors he named.

He said he had "no idea" how long the surgery would take.

Thirteen physicians held a consultation early today to determine whether an operation should be performed.

Hagerty told reporters at a news conference that the consultation had begun about midnight.

The news that Eisenhower had again fallen ill stirred great and widespread concern. Some apprehension arose that perhaps he had had another heart attack such as the one which laid him up for weeks last fall and threatened to remove him from the political picture.

But all day long, the medical reports relayed by Hagerty laid great emphasis on the statement that this is not a heart case. Hagerty said the doctors wanted to underscore that.

Reporters asked Hagerty to ask the doctors flatly whether it would be proper to call Eisenhower's condition "critical." He came back with the report soon after 5 p.m. EDT that they said it "would be wrong to use the word 'critical' at this time."

As for using the word "serious," Hagerty said he would have to wait for further word, but that he himself was not using any adjectives.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist and one of four civilian physicians and surgeons being called in, said before flying to Washington that his information would not lead him to "feel the President is too sick."

However, Dr. White did speak of it as "an acute illness that's got to be handled."

Hagerty was told that Dr. White had been quoted as saying that the President faces major surgery. Hagerty at first replied:

"I would not know one way or the other. I will await the doctors' decision."

Then, noting that three surgeons have been called into the case, Hagerty said that surgery "is a possibility."

The civilian surgeon consultants are Dr. John H. Lyons, who practices in Washington; Dr. Brian Blades, professor at George Washington University Medical School here, and Dr. Isador Ravidin, professor of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

Mrs. Eisenhower and their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, were at the hospital, a quiet but huge and sprawling group of ivy-covered buildings in northwest Washington near the Maryland line. It looks much like a college campus.

The President's youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of the Pennsylvania State University, came here at 6 p.m.

The original diagnosis of the President's case, by White House physician Howard M. Snyder, was ileitis, or an inflammation of the lower section of the small intestine. A later Walter Reed bulletin in which Snyder participated said this was confirmed by examination.

Hagerty was asked whether inflammation in this spot is normally accompanied by an obstruction. He said the doctors said on that point: "Not necessarily, but that it is a possibility."

He said Eisenhower vomited several times before it was decided to take him to the hospital, but not afterward. He said the President seemed to be in good spirits, and had taken several catnaps during the day.

Hagerty related that about 12:45 this morning, Mrs. Eisenhower called Dr. Snyder, and told him the President had some stomach discomfort.

Dr. Snyder suggested a small dose of milk of magnesia.

About 1:20 a.m., the President was still complaining of discomfort, Mrs. Eisenhower told Dr. Snyder in a second call. Snyder then came to the White House about 2 a.m. and stayed.

Doctors in attendance at Walter Reed included Col. Francis Pruitt, chief of medicine who was called in early today to the White House by Dr. Snyder; Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commandant of the hospital; Brig. Gen. Jack W. Schwartz, deputy commander; Col. Robert T. Gants, chief of the department of surgery; Col. Elmer A. Ladd, chief of X-ray, and Lt. Col. Max Smith, assistant chief of surgery.

Dr. Thomas Mattingly, Walter Reed heart specialist who was on a trip was found at Cheraw, S. C., by state police and arranged to fly back from Columbia. Gen. Heaton also was out of town at the time, but was flown back from Gloucester, Va.

Hagerty, at 3:30 p.m., in his third major announcement of the day, read to reporters at the hospital this statement by Drs. Snyder and Heaton:

"The President arrived at the hospital at 1:40 p.m., and was taken to the third floor suite in Ward 1. Examinations including X-ray of the abdomen, laboratory tests and electro-cardiogram were made.

"All studies confirm the original diagnosis of an attack of ileitis. "The X-ray of the abdomen revealed a partial obstruction in the terminal portion of the small intestine (ileum)."

"The electro-cardiogram showed no change.

"Another electro-cardiogram will be taken this afternoon. "The President's blood pressure is 126 over 80. His pulse is 90. His respiration is 20. His temperature is normal."

Hagerty amplified the no-change report on the cardiogram by saying it meant there appeared no change in the President's heart since his examination in mid-May. At that time the doctors reported the President had made a normal and good recovery from the damage done his heart by the attack last Sept. 24.

Hagerty was unable to say what might have caused the obstruction the doctors reported. He said Eisenhower had similar, but not identical, attacks in 1949 and 1953.

Impact On Campaign Seen

President's New Illness Certain To Affect Race

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—How ever serious or slight it may turn out to be, President Eisenhower's latest illness can be expected to have an impact on the 1956 campaign wars.

Even if the President recovers swiftly, the issue of his health might very likely become an increased talking point in the campaign. How it might affect the attitudes of run of the mine voters is anybody's guess. Up to now they have been pretty much inclined to ignore presidential health as an election issue.

If the illness should prove severe and prolonged, there would inevitably arise the big question as to whether Eisenhower would stay in the presidential race. He has said, and repeated, that he would not remain in the presidency, if he felt he wasn't physically up to handling it, and would so inform the people instantly.

Of course, there have been no indications in the last few hours that the President was even so much as toying with the idea of bowing out.

If it ever should come to that, the door would be open for a historic battle royal among Republican aspirants for the nomination, among such men as Vice President Nixon, Sen. Williams Knowland of California, Gov. Christian

A. Herter of Massachusetts and others.

Similarly it would enhance the strategic value of the recent string of victories Adlai Stevenson has hung up in Democratic presidential primaries. His wins in Oregon, Florida and California have put him in the forefront of Democratic contenders.

That would be a spot of more attractive hue, if the President ever should withdraw, since all the strategists figure Eisenhower would be tougher to beat than any other Republican.

For the moment, many Democrats put aside politics and joined Republicans in expressions of hope that the President's intestinal ailment wasn't serious and that he would be back on the job quickly. Such expressions came, for example, from former President Truman in Paris, Stevenson in California, and assorted Democratic senators here.

At headquarters of the Democratic National Committee there was no comment. It has been Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler who has laid most emphasis on the presidential health as a major issue for the campaign. And there was no indication that Butler would be inclined to ease up now.

Vice President Leads Prayer For Ike's Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Vice President Nixon joined tonight in a silent prayer for a swift recovery for President Eisenhower. Then he said he feels in his heart that the President is "going to be back on the firing line just very, very soon."

Nixon spoke at a dinner of Young Republicans. He didn't allude at length to Eisenhower's latest illness but offered instead what he called some "practical observations" on the political scene.

He said it has been mentioned before but the Republicans "have proved that you can have prosperity without war and progress without socialization."

The occasion was a "graduation" banquet for some 240 Young Republican from 41 states and the District of Columbia who have been attending a five-day GOP leadership training school.

Looking a bit tired, Nixon left the banquet room partway through the dinner to take a call from presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, at Walter Reed Hospital, where Eisenhower is a patient. He told reporters that the chief executive was progressing satisfactorily and then relayed the same word to the Young Republicans. They broke into loud cheers.

Nixon said he knew the President would want him to say to those present, on his behalf, "Go ahead and have a good meeting; I'll be all right."

At the opening of the affair, Nixon and all the others bowed their heads in a moment of silent prayer for the quick and complete recovery of the chief executive.

Getting into the practical aspects of politics, Nixon noted that the primary elections are over now and said he didn't know that they had "proved too much" about the people's choice among Democrats.

"I don't think," he said, "that they prove the people like one Democrat better than another. I think what they prove is that up to this point they like President Eisenhower better than any Democrat."

The prayer for Eisenhower was led by the Rev. Frederic B. Harris, chaplain of the Senate.

Showdown On Return To Ballot Stealing

The Louisiana House of Representatives, apparently ruled by an irresponsible majority that has cast campaign pledges to the winds—elected on the promise of no new taxes and now engaged in the wildest orgy of spending and tax-raising in this state's troubled and checkered history—will turn its attention briefly next Monday to one of Governor Earl K. Long's pet proposals designed to knock out voting machines in the smaller precincts.

The suggestion is implicit in this measure, that the old practice of buying votes and stuffing ballot boxes is to be revived—first of all, out where the owls hoot, in innumerable country hamlets, along the bayous, where hand-stuffed ballots could be delayed several days if necessary, to provide a thin margin of victory for the man on horseback.

Under the Kennon administration, voting machines were installed in every parish and precinct of Louisiana. They are not proof against fraud, and nothing human is—but they make it 90 per cent harder to steal an election in any precinct or parish.

Along with the insidious and utterly untenable proposal to abolish the voting machines in the smaller precincts are sly and yet politically clever bills to ease the pressure against illiterate and completely unqualified persons aspiring to vote.

The Louisiana Senate, in an astounding display that perhaps will be forgotten when the next Long-backed measure comes up, killed a bill by Senator A. O. Rappelet of Houma to permit aid by close relatives for illiterate voters.

Charges were made that the proposal would open the door to vote buying.

The Voting Laws Association of Louisiana, which has fought valiantly to safeguard the votes of the people against crookedness, ballot-stuffing, bribery and corruption that have shamed this state in the past, is in the forefront of the effort to prevent repeal of the state's balloting legislation.

In a letter to The Morning World, Mrs. F. Monroe Labouisse, president of the Association, with headquarters at 700 Lafayette Street in New Orleans, appeals for the help of all good citizens in defeating House Bill 603, up for a vote Monday, and its insidious companion pieces of lawwork.

"As you know," she says, "this bill prohibits the use of voting machines in small precincts of the state. We know this is a step backwards. It will make it more difficult to vote, increase work of the commissioners, further delay the returns, and, most important of all, will mean a return to vote buying and vote stealing."

"The Louisiana Voting Laws Association is also opposing House Bill 379 (prohibiting assigning of numbers to candidates and the use of numbers on voting machines), Senate Bill 263 and House Bill 1078 which give assistance to illiterates. We feel these bills will also lead to pressure and vote buying. It is the fundamental right of every citizen to have a secret ballot, and these bills violate that right."

The House measure to abolish voting machines in the smaller precincts is sponsored by Representatives Robert Angelle, Governor Long's chief lieutenant in the House.

It was returned to the calendar in the face of stiff opposition.

Representative Wellborn Jack of Caddo Parish, leading the opposition, castigated it as "The rottenest bill in this Legislature."

Among many "rotten bills," perhaps it deserves this maximum classic ear-mark and brand.

All voters throughout the state should watch how their State Representatives ballot on this measure. The Morning World will carry the roll-call. It is valuable for future reference to the people.

Of Concern To Labor

At the 10th anniversary convention of the Utility Workers union, held in Atlantic City, some interesting remarks were made about the socialized electric power movement. Here is how Henry C. Fleisher reports the matter in Labor News: "Officers of the union voiced concern that the expansion of public power projects such as the TVA into steam-generating facilities, do not take into consideration the need for realistic rate structures." And this, the officers added in effect, limits the union's ability to improve the economic position of its members.

Actually, of course, it would take an optimist of the first water to expect any government business to establish realistic rate structures. Government businesses depend on the U. S. Treasury (that is, the general taxpayers) for sustenance just as surely as an infant depends on its mother. They expect, and generally get, all kinds of special privileges—tax-freedom, tax subsidies, money at low interest rates or no interest rate at all, mail franking rights, and so on ad infinitum. Private business gets none of these. It must pay its own way in every particular, and if it can't the receivers take over.

As for labor's position under socialism, the Utility Workers or any other group doesn't have to look far for sad examples. When the state owns the tools of production, it is the dictator of those who use the tools. Carry this far enough, as in the whole-hog totalitarian countries, and the worker becomes a slave. To strike against the state is treason—and punishment is meted out accordingly.

Free labor, in its own interest, should be among the most aggressive fighters against socialism and government in business. That goes for all business as well as power production.

No Substitute For Understanding

President M. J. Rathbone, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has called attention to pending Congressional legislation which would hamper lawful business mergers, establish cruel and unusual punishment, and use the government's taxing power to penalize business growth.

Mr. Rathbone did not employ this as a mere springboard for an attack on legislation of such a character. Instead, he took a far broader position and cited the proposed measures as examples of the need for businessmen to make themselves better understood among legislators and the public. As he put it, "Behind the surface recognition of business and its achievements, I believe there is still a mass of misconception about how business really operates, what the true motives of businessmen actually are, and a failure to grasp the essential relationship of business to the other parts of our society."

The Prospective Visit

Why Comrades Khrushchev and Bulganin should want to visit the United States is not difficult to understand. They want to see how capitalism and democracy really work. What they will do with this knowledge, no one can tell.

Also, they undoubtedly would like to tell their underlings that Stalin tried to get an invitation but never made it; and that they did get an invitation. So they are bigger than Stalin.

There is danger, however, in their coming to this country and all the agencies of government, including the Army, Navy, FBI, and police will have to be mobilized. There are a great many Ukrainians in the United States whose relatives were murdered, about 20 million of them died, in the man-made famine that Stalin arranged in that country and that Khrushchev carried out. There are millions of people in the United States of Polish, Czechoslovakian, and Hungarian origin who are deeply embittered against both Khrushchev and Bulganin for what happened to their countries before and since Stalin died.

So to start with, it must be made certain that no ticker-tape parade is held in New York because who knows what will be thrown besides ticker tape? It used to be a custom to tear up telephone books and throw the torn pages out of the window. But who will guarantee that no one will throw entire Manhattan telephone books, each one of which weighs about five pounds? It would be awful if one of those books hit Khrushchev and he knocked out. The Russians would then have a cause for war. For while Khrushchev is not the head of state, he is more than that; he is the head of the party. Whereas the czar regarded himself as the successor to Augustus Caesar, Khrushchev is successor to Karl Marx. Is such a man to be knocked out by a telephone book?

And who says that they will limit themselves to telephone books? They might use tomatoes and cabbages and who knows what else? Who, in fact, can say what aberrations the human mind can develop under such circumstances? At Christ Church, Oxford, the British police found six Stalin statues to receive Khrushchev and Bulganin, so the cavalcade was diverted from this beautiful college. Besides, the words Christ and church, combined or separated, would have been too much for these travelers.

Here we would not limit ourselves to six Stalin statues. We should have, at least, 600, all smoking pipes and all looking like the ghost of the old dictator and while the cavalcade drove from the City Hall toward the Waldorf-Astoria, a parade, without a permit, of course, would be marching to meet it, headed by the figure of Cardinal Mindszenty, followed by the 600 Stalin statues. Then would come the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Jewish League Against Communism, possibly with Senator Joe McCarthy on a White Horse and Senator Bill Knowland and Senator Jenner leading the remnants of the pre-1952 Republican Party. The two parades would meet at Union Square where Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and Professor Corliss Lamont would deliver addresses of welcome before the riot started.

No! New York is no place for Khrushchev and Bulganin. Maybe it would be smarter to have them come directly to Washington if Congress is not in session. Otherwise, they would have to be asked to address Congress and Khrushchev would, with his naive frankness, tell Congress to go to the devil, as he does not believe in such antiquated and obsolescent institutions. Then, if Senator Wayne Morse is still in the Senate, he could deliver an address lasting five or six hours explaining what Khrushchev meant by his obviously simple remark. After which there would be a vodka and Ikra party at the Russian Embassy from which Stalin's picture will have disappeared.

It is definitely smarter to bring these people to Washington and to keep them there. New York or Chicago are dangerous places for such as them.

It would also not be sound for anyone to accept a state visit from them. The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee would start an investigation into who stole the stole from whom and whether the Morgenthau Diaries predicted that Khrushchev would succeed Stalin and if Harry Dexter White is responsible.

My fervent advice to Khrushchev and Bulganin is to stay home where their enemies are less articulate. Copyright, 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Better Highways Cost More
Congress has all but approved a highway building program which is just about what President Eisenhower wanted.

Because we are ourselves, for a change, there has been little objection.

This does not mean, however, that the great superhighways on the horizon will be free.

The typical car owner will pay about $8.60 additional taxes per year. The five axle truck may pay $5.65 a year, which will also be passed along to consumer in increased prices of merchandise moved by motor freight.

So let's see if we will be getting our money's worth.

The highway program constitutes the greatest peacetime federal building project in history.

Within thirteen years it is supposed to link practically every city in the United States (with a population of fifty thousand or more) with roads on which there are no stoplights, no intersections.

Around fifty cities, there will be a highway by-pass.

Some of these superhighways will have eight lanes.

All of them (with the exception of only about 7,000 miles) will have at least three lanes.

Down in the Ozarks, we are inclined to judge who "wears the pants" in a farm family merely by driving by. If the farm house is falling apart, but the barn is in good condition, we say, "The man runs that family."

If the farmhouse is freshly painted and the barn is in disrepair, we figure, "The wife rules there."

remedy that failure. The fact that our free enterprise economy has brought more good to more people than any other system ever devised by man is certainly splendid. It is cause for congratulation all around. But the best achievements can be misunderstood—and that is where the danger lies for business, and for all of us who depend on business for jobs and opportunities and high living standards.

Business has a great story to tell. Let it tell it! To quote Mr. Rathbone once more: "Familiarity is no substitute for understanding. And real understanding is worth working for, since the future of our industrial economy is at stake and, along with it, the future of every American."

Youth's Ambition

Boys and Girls, you who are about to be graduated from school, whatever grade, hold fast to your ambition to be somebody some day, and to do great things on the way. Today, as you look ahead, count up the helps and the hindrances that are your lot, hold on to your hope. Keep the faith within you. It is the power you need for the work you want to do, the place you want to attain.

If the road is blocked, if there is no money to help you on your way and you cannot take the next step to your goal, hold on to the hope. Take whatever offers itself in the way of work and keep watching, hoping and working toward the end you have in sight. Keep your eyes and ears open to what goes on about you, and soon you will see a way, no matter how small the opening, to take another step forward.

Always try to get work in the field you hope to enter, even if it is the least promising one. Sweep the floor in the scientist's shop if it means you are nearer your dream of scientific exploration. The very atmosphere of the place will teach you something, especially if your eyes and ears are as alert as they should be.

Get a book and study it from cover to cover, until it is part of your thinking. If possible to talk to a professional on the subject, ask your questions. Keep a notebook and a scrapbook, and keep watching for the open door that will surely appear.

No boy or girl has ever found himself in a place of difficulty that some other has not faced and overcome. How many of our great men and women were born with silver spoons in their mouths? Read their biographies, take courage, and hold on and keep alert for opportunity.

Here is an old folk tale for your consideration. Once a boy wanted to get to a beautiful garden, but the gate was locked. His fairy god-mother came to him and said, "If you want the key, go through the wishing gate and knock at the first door you see. The gnome that guards the key lives there, and he will give it to you when you knock at his door. Go, and wisdom go with you."

So the boy set out. He walked and walked, but he did not see the gate. He passed two old sticks standing up, and a crosspiece leaning against them and he said, "It couldn't be that." On and on he went, seeing nothing and at last, tired, discouraged and hungry he turned back and said, "I'll have to give up."

Night began to gather and he stumbled on. Suddenly he fell through the ground and into a room where the gnome was having his dinner. "Dear me, are you the gnome that keeps the key?"

"I am and you're the blind boy who couldn't see his nose before his face. I even set up three sticks to call your attention to my gate. But no—you looked for a fine bronze one, and you missed the wishing gate."

"Can I have the key?"

"No, the key must be taken through the wishing gate. Go back and find it before you come to me."

Foreign Bases

The United States now faces increasing pressure to withdraw troops and equipment from its advanced military air bases, including Okinawa in the Pacific and the four bases in Morocco, which recently became an independent state. Although all overtures to that end will be rejected, the whole matter of bases has been under study by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which is working on a reevaluation of their military value and vulnerability in case of attack.

Having spend around a billion dollars in building and developing those bases, the directors of U.S. defense policy are not certain themselves what might happen to such outposts if war broke suddenly.

Undoubtedly much of the propaganda to prevent those bases from being strongly held, abandoned or, in the case of Okinawa, turned back to Japan, can be traced to Communist origins, for in Moscow-Creeping war plans, they figure largely.

Morocco undoubtedly wants the U.S. to hold the bases for the present, partly as a means of obtaining larger grants of foreign aid. But their effectiveness for defense of the U.S. is greatly restricted by limits on the size of American forces which may be stationed there.

In the case of Okinawa, in addition to Army, Navy and Air Force units, a Marine division of 17,500 men has been recently ordered to duty there for a fourteen month tour as a mobile striking force, ready for instant combat action. Although other forces are allowed to bring their families to Okinawa, the Marine dependents must remain at home.

This 467 square mile base, from which Air Force units in World War II took off to bomb Japan, has experienced serious crowding from military installations. The inhabitants like Americans, but majority are said to favor return to the Japanese rule under which they lived before World War II, in which the U.S. invasion of Okinawa cost 50,000 casualties including more than 12,000 killed.

Another $45,000,000 will be spent to house the Marines, for whom the U.S. is acquiring an additional 38,890 acres. This gives further evidence that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have no thought of abandoning the island, though at the end of World War II leading naval officers disagreed radically over its strategic value.

Admiral R. A. Spruance, then commander of the Pacific fleet was convinced that Okinawa has no further value as a base. He was overruled by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who decided that as a naval and air base, Okinawa was vital to the U.S. defense line in the Far East. The subsequent victory of the Chinese Communists demonstrated Nimitz far-sightedness.

The Communists inspired overtures for restriction and eventual withdrawal of the U.S. from its North African bases, constructed at a cost of more than $400,000,000 have progressed sufficiently to be a cause of deep concern to the Joint Chiefs, who are reported to apprehend the State Department is inclined to make concessions which will further weaken the striking power of those bases, now undermanned and under-equipped.

Reliable sources say that in event of a sudden war, the striking power of the skeleton Air Force units now based in Morocco would be ineffective, partly because of the French withdrawal from Morocco and the probability that Morocco's new rulers would attempt to prevent the use of U.S. leased air bases as take off points for counter attacks on targets behind the Iron Curtain.

So long as the armed services prevail there will be no retreat from the foreign defense bases which are necessary outposts in the U.S. security perimeter. But further concessions will weaken their strength until their value in the defense pattern could become negligible.

Facts Worth Knowing

Cotton, sugar cane, rice and corn are the most important crops in Louisiana but the fertile soil and favorable climate make it possible to raise almost every variety of crop found in the western hemisphere.

Cattle raising began in south-west Louisiana before it did in Texas, and tradition has it that the celebrated Texas' longhorn steer originated in the Bayou state.

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Millions of teen-age girls face Ellen's dilemma. So use the terse advice given below and be sure to send for the sex booklet Ellen employed to help her realize what will do the most good for the most people over the longest period of time. That is the yardstick for determining what is right.

Case R-378: Ellen R., aged 17, is a high schooler who will graduate next term.

"Dr. Crane, I am in a very muddled state of mind," she admitted.

"I come from a fine moral home and have been very active in the church. During the first semester of my senior year, I have been dating a very attractive boy.

"He is a leading athlete. All the girls are crazy about him. But he and I have been going steady for the last couple of months."

"Now he is making demands of me for liberties that I have been taught are not right till after marriage."

"When I object, he argues that I am old-fashioned. He says all the girls do such things nowadays. 'And he has threatened to jil me. In fact, last night he did stand me up on a date, and it is very humiliating."

"For our city is not so large but that all the kids know each other. I have been regarded as a steady date, so what will the think if I am suddenly left alone?"

Ellen's problem involves a conflict between social pressure and moral logic.

So explained to Ellen that nobody else can form her moral decisions for her. Advisers may offer some facts, but she must make the final decision.

"What would you gain by giving in to this boy's demands for illis sexual privileges?" I began.

"Let's depict your moral problem by drawing a scales beam with two pans thereon."

"If you surrender to this boy you may win 50 dates with him next semester."

"But now let's see the price you pay for them. First, you will lose woman's greatest charm in the eyes of the male sex, name your spunk or independent spirit."

"Thereafter, you will be furtively eyed, wondering if other people know about your case."

"And if your boy friend touts liquor, then you will be in constant torment, for a drinking man is tell everything."

"For John Barleycorn keeps secrets. What happens in priv may be common knowledge w a man uses liquor, so beware!"

"Second, you may contract g orrhea and syphilis, the two d gerous venereal diseases. T can lead to permanent sterility matters even in the age of penicillin and other anti-biotics."

"Third, you may become pregnant. Then you may find it ury to drop out of school."

"That would almost break hearts of your Dad and Mot who have idolized you. They w to enjoy your adult happiness a safely married woman in a standing in the community."

"You are the middle link i 3-link chain, involving y parents and your future child. So be fair to both groups."

"Fourth, you will betray y unborn baby if you become pregnant. If you bear it out of y luck, then it will have one at against it in life."

"If you let it be adopted birth, your heart will be angui and you will feel badly for y"

"Fifth, it will be more diff to marry later on, for you have this black mark ag your record."

"The church leaders for e ries have decided that what the most good for the most pe over the longest period of tim right and moral. What do think will answer that sur yardstick?"

Legislative Action

House and Senate face floor action on portions of the committee's program.

The Senate will have ready for final passage a five-bill package to:

1. Attempt to block integration suits by withdrawing state permission to sue state or local agencies governing recreation or park facilities, schools and colleges.
2. Place segregation in public parks and recreational facilities under "the state's sovereign police powers." This is similar to a school segregation law adopted in 1954 that was knocked out early this year by a three-judge federal court.
3. Guarantee segregated travel waiting rooms by requiring one area for white intrastate passengers and another for Negro intrastate and other passengers.
4. Require applicants to colleges and universities to present certificates of eligibility and good moral character from school and parish superintendents.
5. Eliminate compulsory school attendance when schools are forced to integrate.

A sixth measure, appropriating $15,000 for committee expense, was blocked in the House Appropriations Committee by the general appropriations bill. No other money bills will be approved until it comes out of committee.

They will have four other segregation committee proposals, introduced after the first group, which attempt to prevent teachers from advocating school integration or joining the outlawed National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, banned under an old law originally aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

The four proposals, in effect, would:

1. Amend teacher tenure laws providing additional ground for dismissal either for being a member or contributing to the NAACP.
2. Provide as another ground for dismissal the advocacy or aiding in bringing about integration in public schools or state colleges.

The Louisiana State University board of supervisors, at a special meeting on segregation, rejected the proposal for requiring certificates of moral character.

At the same meeting, and at two later sessions, LSU board also killed a proposal to block LSU teams from competing against Negroes.

But three legislators this week introduced a bill "to prohibit all interracial dancing, social functions, entertainments, athletic training, games, sports or contests and other such activities."

The bill is in committee, as are most other segregation proposals not backed by the committee.

Other segregation proposals would:

1. Prohibit "television showing of interracial programs involving certain social contacts between persons of the white and Negro races."
2. Provide for districting of white and Negro schools by the state, not on the local level.
3. Require separate facilities for white and Negro races — sanitary, drinking and seating — in all public buildings.
4. Require separate facilities for white and Negro races in restaurants and hotels.
5. Require "persons, firms and corporations" to furnish separate facilities for all employees, "sanitary facilities, eating places and drinking facilities."

But two segregation bills were aimed in committee this week. They primarily would have affected Catholic parochial schools and colleges.

The bills, offered by Rep. Louis Folse of Arabi, would:

1. Cut off state funds and recognition of graduates to any private elementary or secondary school that integrated.
2. Wipe out property tax exemption for any private college or university that integrated.

The Senate Education Committee reported the bills unfavorably and Folse made no effort to revive them by floor action.

going to work as long as I can wait, but I did want the retiree ment assured so I could have a back log if I ever needed it."

P. A. Poag, city secretary treasurer and tax collector, will start his 42nd year in office in August. The House passed a bill in 1954 in which he was given retirement if at any time he needed this assistance. Two fine men are both of these gentlemen and they deserve any financial aid the city can bestow for a job unusually well performed.

Hotel Alvis is undergoing a big change in its appearance. We were informed that it will be greatly beautified and modernized when a new front is added.

The Kall family regad this hostelry with deep affection for to them it represents the lifework of a previous generation who by excellent business acumen were able to build up one of the largest and most important hostelries in this section.

They are not intending to let it be surpassed by other hostelries and this is one of the reasons for the beautification and modernization at this time.

Monroians are possessed of the characteristics that lead one to aid these in actual need.

We have only to call attention to the Aubrey Tisdale case, that of a youth confined to his bed with broken back. His story was recently again re-told and generous persons have today donated nearly $300. But members of the Delta Kappa Pi, high school sorority are rallying to the aid of Randy Winfrey, two year old, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Winfrey. What do you think these sorority young girls are planning?

They are going to mow lawns and donate every cent they take in to the cause of this boy who is incurably afflicted with cancer.

He is now in a Houston hospital and his medical needs are piling up which has caused the girls mentioned to decide to mow grass in lawns. They start on this work June 11 and do it for a week. They charge only $2 a lawn but if one wants to pay over and above this sum it will be thankfully received.

The telephone is 2-6690. Call and let the girls have fun and profit working your lawn over and think what it means to that little sufferer in a big Houston hospital.

Mrs. I. C. Castles returned Wednesday by Delta Airlines from North Carolina where she saw her oldest son, Ira Castle, Jr., graduate from the University of North Carolina with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Economics.

He is now teaching this summer in Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio. This is a college largely attended by persons of the Quaker belief.

you would not refer to it in such leasing terms as "nice warm." s for BED, this depends on the circumstances. In the tropics or in the heat of summer a "nice warm" BED would hardly be nice to contemplate.

12. "Greatly annoyed," yes. If he maid let the whole teapot DROP on the testable. But, to let DRIP might well be a minor thing — a DROP or two possibly and little cause to be greatly annoyed."

17. THREAT is best. "Throat."

as it stands, simply means an ordinary healthy THROAT, and there is no apparent reason why this should prompt any special precautions. THREAT is clearly a good answer.

18. SAILOR is more apt. It is VERY EASY, rather than just "possible," to associate a TAILOR with a cutter, since the two work in conjunction with each other. The association of a SAILOR with a cutter (vessel) is comparatively unlikely, but definitely POSSIBLE.

21. SEW is the surer answer.

The clue refers to both men and women, of course. Practically all men will consider SEWING a most boring job and some women too. Also, it is doubly so since the border is a "particularly long one." To SCW a long border in a garden can be a pleasant task for many men and many women.

3. It doesn't matter WHICH WAY you send it as long as you send it in time. The particular DAY you send it will decide whether it arrives in time or not.

8. In face of great danger, one simply DOES, or does not, remain unperturbed, according to one's nature. This is a psychological fact; perturbation is mental. It is not a question of what one CAN, or cannot, do. Thus WOULD is preferable to COULD.

12. DELAY CAN HAVE serious consequences, such as DECAY, which is ITSELF a consequence.

13. It is the SINNER, not the SIN, who may need to be forgiven. In some cases one's SON may indeed need to be forgiven.

16. A PART in a play may be a success due to the one actor concerned. The successful SIGNING of a PACT may be largely due to one man's efforts, but the ACTUAL success of it depends on subsequent events, which cannot rest on one man.

19. As far as the average person is concerned, PRISON is an excellent institution — it is only unpleasant for crooks. POISON is unpleasant from anybody's viewpoint.

22. "Risky" to employ a man whose WORD cannot be relied upon — he's the type who MAY let you down even if his actual WORK is alright. If his WORK cannot be relied upon, employing him would be MORE than a risk. "Risk" would be an understatement.

23. You're always anxious to see a STORM ending, particularly a big or overpowering one. As for STORY, many a one has action and excitement in the middle and tapers off to an indifferent ending in which case you are but mildly interested in the endings.

out of wedlock to her eldest daughter, 17.

The judge said he exiled the family only as a last resort. Later the judge told a reporter: "Obviously, the taxpayers of Cuyahoga County (Greater Cleveland) cannot be expected to support all the indigent people from all over who want to come here to live."

"But I am disturbed when I find a mother, no matter what her station in life, blocked by law in her attempt to improve the lot of herself and her family."

The judge said the welfare authorities told him there was no way to aid the family here under Ohio law.

To get the plight of the family before the court, welfare officials charged the woman with neglect of six children under 16 by keeping them out of school.

"I kept them out because they did not have any shoes or clothes to wear," she said.

"I won't go back South," she declared.

But the judge asked her, "Do you want your children to starve? Do you want that little baby to die?"

"I'll do the best I can and if that's not enough, then it's up to the Lord," she replied.

But today welfare workers went to the Negro's tenement home in a slum area soon to be razed on Cleveland's East Side and escorted the family to the train.

McKinney bayou and Barkman creek in Arkansas, $25,000, same as House figure; and Walnut bayou in Arkansas, $25,000, no House allocation.

The appropriation for lower Mississippi and tributaries flood control was hiked by the Senate committee from the House figure of $58,030,000 to $62,781,000. This figure included $100,000 for Red river backwater areas, same as the House and budget figure; $1,400,000 for Bayous Boeuf and Tenas, also same as House and budget, and $8,962,000 for general investigations, compared with the House figure of $7,962,000.

Defense Rests In Conspiracy Trial Of Truman Aides

ST. LOUIS, June 8 —UP—The defense in the trial of T. Lamar Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly rested Friday after Caudle denied he tried to stop a federal grand jury from indicting a tax evader whose case he and Connelly are accused of trying to fix.

Caudle finished two days on the witness stand in which he denied, at times vehemently, all government charges that he conspired with Connelly and Harry I. Schwimmer to allow the tax evader to escape criminal trial.

He told the jury he rejected a proffered oil royalty from Schwimmer, attorney for Irving Sachs, and told him to return it to the seller. He said he sent Ellis Slack, a Justice Department attorney, to St. Louis to help the grand jury.

Special Assistant Attorney General Wyllis Newcomb charged in cross-examination that Caudle wanted the grand jury "to close up shop and go home."

Caudle, former assistant attorney general in charge of the tax

division until 1951, said he "cut him to ribbons" when Schwimmer offered the royalty but later their relations were cordial because "I can't stay mad at anybody."

Connelly, White House aid to former President Truman, also denied the government charges in his own testimony earlier this week.

The defense, meanwhile, claimed a major victory as a result of Federal Judge Ruben M. Hulen's stipulation he would charge the jury only regarding the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government of the services of Caudle and Connelly.

City Court

Judge W. M. Harper in Monroe city court Friday heard the following cases:

Walter Allen Harper was fined $400 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition.

Ten persons were charged with traffic violations and were fined a total of $177.

Five persons were charged with public drunkenness and were fined $25 each.

Young Swimmers Begin Course In Lake Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, June 8 (Special) — A total of 143 East Carroll children have signed up to take the beginner's course in swimming, which started this week at the Legion Pier.

Approximately 75 of the children are from the Lake Providence area, with 70 from the Transylvania and Monticello communities.

Two beginners classes are held each day and one class for intermediates. Instructors this year are Mrs. Tommy Lewis, Zeke Myers and Gary Walters.

Snakebite Victim—Miss Hazel Temple, 19, is shown in a Winnsboro hospital Friday morning with her cousin, Floyd Reeves, 16, after he helped save her life following a rattlesnake bite on her leg Wednesday afternoon while blackberry picking. First reported in very serious condition, Miss Temple yesterday was "much improved" according to her physician. Floyd applied a tourniquet to Hazel's leg within minutes after the bite and got her out of the woods, although she was unconscious, by carrying her on a tractor and about a mile on his back when the tractor became stuck in mud. Hazel had shot the four-foot, three-rattler snake three times with her .16 gauge shotgun before fainting. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Ex-Convict Hunted For Slaying Three In Chicago Tavern

CHICAGO, June 8 —UP—Police squads combed the city Friday for an ex-convict with a "grudge" who walked into a jazz spot with a shotgun and killed three persons, two of whom covered on the floor begging for mercy.

Witnesses identified the gunman as Lawrence Neumann, 28, known to police as a minor hoodlum who once served a prison term for robbery.

The assailant entered the Mirac bar, a night spot which features a Dixieland jazz band, shortly after 2 a.m. Friday and announced he was "going to kill everyone in the place."

Max Epstein, 54, whose brother owns the cocktail lounge, dropped behind the bar and begged for mercy as the gunman approached him. Witnesses said Neumann stepped up on the bar rail, leaned over the bar and shot Epstein to death with two blasts from his pump-action shotgun.

The gunmen then turned on Lois M. Gates, 28, pretty operator of the lounge's dice game, who fell to the floor screaming for her life. She was killed with a blast in the neck.

The owner, Mickey Epstein, 38, had dropped from sight in a booth. Other patrons were sprawled on the floor. The gunman whirled toward the door just as a news vendor attracted by the shots, John Keller, 49, ran in.

Keller was pushed back out the door and gunned down on the sidewalk. The assailant fled down an alley and eluded a police dragnet in the area.

Mickey Epstein identified the slayer as Neumann. Police said the ex-convict apparently held a grudge against the Epsteins because they had him arrested for brawling in the bar May 9. Charges against him later were dropped.

Phone Company Seeks Rate Hike For 3 Parishes

The LaSalle Telephone Company, Inc., has filed an application with the Louisiana Public Service Commission asking authority to increase its rates and charges for telephone service in LaSalle, Franklin and Catahoula parishes, according to a report issued by C. W. Coleman, commission secretary.

Also included in the company's and charges for other services such as extension telephones, mileage charges, etc.

Coleman said in the report that the application has been placed on the commission's formal docket and that interested parties of record will be given ample advance notice of the exact date and place of a hearing.

The proposals contained in the application would raise the rates of business and residence phones as shown by the following:

Business — In Jena, Olla, Tullos and Urania, one-party phone, from the present $5.50 to $7.50; multi-party, from $4 to $5. In Wisner, one-party, from $5 to $7; multi-party, from $4 to $5.

Residence — In Jena, Olla, Tullos and Urania, one-party from $3 to $5; multi-party, from $3 to $3.50. In Wisner, one-party, from $2.75 to $4.50; multi-party from $3 to $3.50.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Exercise has an effect on weight loss because it burns up calories.

Correct Posture Will Improve Measurements

Today I am giving you the answers to the questions which were printed in this column earlier in the week.

Correct Answers

1. You can take an inch or so off of your abdominal and waist measurements by pulling your abdomen in rather than allowing the muscles to be lax. You can also add to your bust measurement by assuming correct posture; abdomen in, spine straight, lifting the rib cage.
2. The usual weight and height charts are average weights and heights for different ages. The average man and woman gain too much as they grow older. Also, bony structure is an important factor.
3. People often grow taller even after the age of 25 although most people have reached their full height by the age of 25.
4. There is no reason why your figure should change because you bear a child. There is no change in bony structure. Any weight you may have gained can be lost by calorie counting and stretched.

abdominal muscles can be toned with exercise.

5. Do not pull your shoulders back when assuming correct posture. You should straighten your spine and pull your abdominal muscles in but your shoulders should be relaxed.
6. You cannot lose weight by standing for 20 minutes after eating.
7. It does not matter when you eat your heaviest or your lightest meal. It is the total calorie count for every 24 hours that counts. The only way in which eating the heaviest meal at night might have an effect is because we are more relaxed and unhurried then, longer at the table and therefore may eat more.
8. Of course there are many exceptions, but it's a good guess that a girl will have a middle-aged figure somewhat like her mother's, since often bony structure is inherited as are the glandular setup and eating habits.
9. It is true that fat seems to run in some families. However, this is usually because of inherited eating habits. Also the glandular system may be similar. However, a change in eating habits and a bit more than usual attention to dieting will usually turn the trick.
10. Exercise does have an effect on weight loss because it burns up calories. Our weight depends on the ratio between the energy we use and the food we consume.
11. You can decrease measurements by exercise. Exercise can distribute your weight more attractively.
12. While your carbohydrate intake should be cut lower than usual, even when dieting you require some starch and sugar. Potatoes are not fattening and neither is regular loaf bread unless you dunk them with butter.

13. A very small percentage of overweight women have a glandular deficiency. Of course there are a few who have.

14. You cannot lose an ounce of fat by cutting salt out of your diet. Salt does affect water retention in the tissues. Therefore you may lose some weight in the form of water.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX —

- Sex Education Books
- Break The Deadlock
- Love Varies Its Pattern

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Yesterday my 13-year-old daughter read your column, which contained a letter from a girl who became pregnant after a week-end date. Questions followed, which I wasn't quite prepared to answer. I wonder if you have any reading matter I could give her. She's a very intelligent girl and accepts all information that is satisfactorily given. You got me into this. Now get me out!

DEAR MRS. B.B.: And here I come, flying on four engines. So many fine books have been written to present young people with a clear uncomplicated view of sex, that the difficulty is to reject, rather than select, some. Two notable recent additions to the list are: "For Girls Only" by Frank Howard Richardson (Tupper and Love, Inc., Atlanta, Ga., $2.75), and "The Stork Didn't Bring You," by Lois Pemberton (Hermitage Press, New York, $2.75.)

The former has a companion book, "For Boys Only." These books present informal discussions between a woman doctor in the first case, the author, in the second, and adolescent groups.

"The Stork Didn't Bring You" is a most complete book on the subject, straightforward and tastefully written on a delicate theme. These books could be put in your daughter's hands without a qualm.

If you'd be interested in other literature, I have a book list on Sex Education for Teen-agers. The material runs from 25-cent pamphlets to $3.50 books. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me, in care of this newspaper, and the list is yours.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Five years ago, when I was in school, I went steady with a classmate. Our friendship broke up soon after I graduated and I met another girl soon after. We've had several dates but I was never serious about her.

Now the first girl has come back into my life. After one date with her, the second girl practically refuses to go with me though I've coaxed her out a few times. Now I think I like her best but still date the first one.

When I kiss one girl, I invariably think of the other. What can I do? You probably think I have a one-track mind. I'm 20 years old.

DEAR BUSTER: This is a mind? Son, you can't even get it out of the station, much less keep it on one track. Look around for a third gal, and I bet she takes your mind off the other conquests.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My fiance and I are a devoted couple and plan to be married this fall. The other night we were discussing couples we know who are married or engaged, yet seem to lack real love. Is that the trend today? Don't you think young people of today skip the most important part of marriage?

DEAR JEANNE: You're so absorbed in your own complete happiness that you expect everyone else to follow an exact pattern set down by you, as a loving, engaged couple.

Love is a very un-standardized thing. People have different ways of showing it and very often the undemonstrative couple shares a love with very deep roots.

Don't judge by appearances. Note the quiet little considerations, the small tendernesses, the tiny attentions so delicately given they could easily be missed by an onlooker.

Today's trend in love is no different from that of any previous time; it's as deep, as true and as eternal as ever. The cases where it isn't sincere, or where it's fleeting, are the exception, rather than the rule.

Showdown On Return To Ballot Stealing

The Louisiana House of Representatives, apparently ruled by an irresponsible majority that has cast campaign pledges to the winds—elected on the promise of no new taxes and now engaged in the wildest orgy of spending and tax-raising in this state's troubled and checkered history—will turn its attention briefly next Monday to one of Governor Earl K. Long's pet proposals designed to knock out voting machines in the smaller precincts.

The suggestion is implicit in this measure, that the old practice of buying votes and stuffing ballot boxes is to be revived—first of all, out where the owls hoot, in innumerable country hamlets, along the bayous, where hand-stuffed ballots could be delayed several days if necessary, to provide a thin margin of victory for the man on horseback.

Under the Kennon administration, voting machines were installed in every parish and precinct of Louisiana. They are not proof against fraud, and nothing human is—but they make it 90 per cent harder to steal an election in any precinct or parish.

Along with the insidious and utterly untenable proposal to abolish the voting machines in the smaller precincts are sly and yet politically clever bills to ease the pressure against illiterate and completely unqualified persons aspiring to vote.

The Louisiana Senate, in an astounding display that perhaps will be forgotten when the next Long-backed measure comes up, killed a bill by Senator A. O. Rappelet of Houma to permit aid by close relatives for illiterate voters.

Charges were made that the proposal would open the door to vote buying.

The Voting Laws Association of Louisiana, which has fought valiantly to safeguard the votes of the people against crookedness, ballot-stuffing, bribery and corruption that have shamed this state in the past, is in the forefront of the effort to prevent repeal of the state's balloting legislation.

In a letter to The Morning World, Mrs. F. Monroe Labrousse, president of the Association, with headquarters at 700 Lafayette Street in New Orleans, appeals for the help of all good citizens in defeating House Bill 603, up for a vote Monday, and its insidious companion pieces of lawwork.

"As you know," she says, "this bill prohibits the use of voting machines in small precincts of the state. We know this is a step backwards. It will make it more difficult to vote, increase work of the commissioners, further delay the returns, and, most important of all, will mean a return to vote buying and vote stealing."

"The Louisiana Voting Laws Association is also opposing House Bill 378 (prohibiting assigning of numbers to candidates and use of numbers on voting machines), Senate Bill 263 and House Bill 1078 which give assistance to illiterates. We feel these bills will also lead to pressure and vote buying. It is the fundamental right of every citizen to have a secret ballot, and these bills violate that right."

The House measure to abolish voting machines in the smaller precincts is sponsored by Representatives Robert Angelle, Governor Long's chief lieutenant in the House.

It was returned to the calendar in the face of stiff opposition.

Representative Wellborn Jack of Caddo Parish, leading the opposition, castigated it as "The rottenest bill in this Legislature."

Among many "rotten bills," perhaps it deserves this maximum classic ear-mark and brand.

All voters throughout the state should watch how their State Representatives ballot on this measure. The Morning World will carry the roll-call. It is valuable for future reference to the people.

Of Concern To Labor

At the 10th anniversary convention of the Utility Workers union, held in Atlantic City, some interesting remarks were made about the socialized electric power movement. Here is how Henry C. Fleisher reports the matter in Labor News: "Officers of the union voiced concern that the expansion of public power projects such as the TVA into steam-generating facilities, do not 'take into consideration the need for realistic rate structures.'" And this, the officers added in effect, limits the union's ability to improve the economic position of its members.

Actually, of course, it would take an optimist of the first water to expect any government business to establish realistic rate structures. Government businesses depend on the U. S. Treasury (that is, the general taxpayers) for sustenance just as surely as an infant depends on its mother. They expect, and generally get, all kinds of special privileges—tax-freeedom, tax subsidies, money at low interest rates or no interest rate at all, mail franking rights, and so on ad infinitum. Private business gets none of these. It must pay its own way in every particular, and if it can't the receivers take over.

As for labor's position under socialism, the Utility Workers or any other group doesn't have to look far for sad examples. When the state owns the tools of production, it is the dictator of those who use the tools. Carry this far enough, as in the whole-hog totalitarian countries, and the worker becomes a slave. To strike against the state is treason—and punishment is meted out accordingly.

Free labor, in its own interest, should be among the most aggressive fighters against socialism and government in business. That goes for all business as well as power production.

No Substitute For Understanding

President M. J. Rathbone, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has called attention to pending Congressional legislation which would hamper lawful business mergers, establish cruel and unusual punishment, and use the government's taxing power to penalize business growth.

Mr. Rathbone did not employ this as a mere spring-board for an attack on legislation of such a character. Instead, he took a far broader position and cited the proposed measures as examples of the need for businessmen to make themselves better understood among legislators and the public. As he put it, "Behind the surface recognition of business and its achievements, I believe there is still a mass of misconception about how business really operates, what the true motives of businessmen actually are, and a failure to grasp the essential relationship of business to the other parts of our society."

The Prospective Visit

Why Comrades Khrushchev and Bulganin should want to visit the United States is not difficult to understand. They want to see how capitalism and democracy really work. What they will do with this knowledge, no one can tell.

Also, they undoubtedly would like to tell their underlings that Stalin tried to get an invitation but never made it; and that they did get an invitation. So they are bigger than Stalin.

There is danger, however, in their coming to this country and all the agencies of government, including the Army, Navy, FBI, and police will have to be mobilized. There are a great many Ukrainians in the United States whose relatives were murdered, about 20 million of them died, in the man-made famine that Stalin arranged in that country and that Khrushchev carried out. There are millions of people in the United States of Polish, Czechoslovakian, and Hungarian origin who are deeply embittered against both Khrushchev and Bulganin for what happened to their countries before and since Stalin died.

So to start with, it must be made certain that no ticker-tape parade is held in New York because who knows what will be thrown besides ticker tape? It used to be a custom to tear up telephone books and throw the torn pages out of the window. But who will guarantee that no one will throw entire Manhattan telephone books, each one of which weighs about five pounds? It would be awful if one of those books hit Khrushchev and he knocked out. The Russians would then have a cause for war. For while Khrushchev is not the head of state, he is more than that; he is the head of the party. Whereas the czar regarded himself as the successor to Augustus Caesar, Khrushchev is successor to Karl Marx. Is such a man to be knocked out by a telephone book?

And who says that they will limit themselves to telephone books? They might use tomatoes and cabbage and who knows what else? Who, in fact, can say what aberrations the human mind can develop under such circumstances? At Christ Church, Oxford, the British police found six Stalin statues to receive Khrushchev and Bulganin, so the cavalcade was diverted from this beautiful college. Besides, the words Christ and church, combined or separated, would have been too much for these travelers.

Here we would not limit ourselves to six Stalin. We should have, at least, 600, all smoking pipes and all looking like the ghost of the old dictator and while the cavalcade drove from the City Hall toward the Waldorf-Astoria, a parade, without a permit, of course, would be marching to meet it, headed by the figure of Cardinal Mindszenty, followed by the 600 Stalin's. Then would come the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Jewish League Against Communism, possibly with Senator Joe McCarthy on a White Horse and Senator Bill Knowland and Senator Jenner leading the remains of the pre-1952 Republican Party. The two parades would meet at Union Square where Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and Professor Corliss Lamont would deliver addresses of welcome before the riot started.

No! New York is no place for Khrushchev and Bulganin. Maybe it would be smarter to have them come directly to Washington if Congress is not in session. Otherwise, they would have to be asked to address Congress and Khrushchev would, with his naive frankness, tell Congress to go to the devil, as he does not believe in such antiquated and obsolescent institutions. Then, if Senator Wayne Morse is still in the Senate, he could deliver an address lasting five or six hours explaining what Khrushchev meant by his obviously simple remark. After which there would be a vodka and ikra party at the Russian Embassy from which Stalin's picture will have disappeared.

It is definitely smarter to bring these people to Washington and to keep them there. New York or Chicago are dangerous places for such as them.

It would also not be sound for anyone to accept a sable stole from them. The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee would start an investigation into who stole the stole from whom and whether the Morgenthau Diaries predicted that Khrushchev would succeed Stalin and if Harry Dexter White is responsible.

My fervent advice to Khrushchev and Bulganin is to stay home where their enemies are less articulate. (Copyright, 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Paul Harvey--News

Better Highways Cost More
Congress has all but approved a highway building program which is just about what President Eisenhower wanted.

Because we are ourselves, for a change, there has been little objection.

This does not mean, however, that the great superhighways on the horizon will be free.

The typical car owner will pay about $8.60 additional taxes per year. The five axle truck may pay $5.65 a year, which will also be passed along to consumer in increased prices of merchandise moved by motor freight.

So let's see if we will be getting our money's worth. The highway program constitutes the greatest peacetime federal building project in history.

Within thirteen years it is supposed to link practically every town in the United States (with a population of fifty thousand or more) with roads on which there are no stoplights, no intersections.

Around fifty big cities, there will be a highway by-pass.

Some of these superhighways will have eight lanes.

All of them (with the exception of only about 7,000 miles) will have at least three lanes.

Down in the Ozarks, we are inclined to judge who wears the pants in a farm family merely by driving by. If the farm house is falling apart, but the barn is in good condition, we say, "The man runs that family."

If the farmhouse is freshly painted and the barn is in disrepair, we figure, "The wife rules there."

remedy that failure. The fact that our free enterprise economy has brought more good to more people than any other system ever devised by man is certainly splendid. It is cause for congratulation all around. But the best achievements can be misunderstood—and that is where the danger lies for business, and for all of us who depend on business for jobs and opportunities and high living standards.

Business has a great story to tell. Let it tell it! To quote Mr. Rathbone once more: "Familiarity is no substitute for understanding. And real understanding is worth working for, since the future of our industrial economy is at stake and, along with it, the future of every American."

My Joy Depends

MY JOY depends on whether you . . . Give all your love to me . . .

And if you speak your sentiments . . . With real sincerity . . . If you are lonely when alone . . . And happy at my side . . . And if you share all things with me . . . Whatever time or tide . . . I am your own, my darling one . . . As I have promised you . . . With every thought and energy . . . To make your dreams come true . . . I try to live each moment, dear . . . Youth's Ambition

Boys and Girls, you who are about to be graduated from school, whatever grade, hold fast to your ambition to be somebody some day, and to do great things on the way. Today, as you look ahead, count up the helps and the hindrances that are your lot, hold on to your hope. Keep the faith within you. It is the power you need for the work you want to do, the place you want to attain.

If the road is blocked, if there is no money to help you on your way and you cannot take the next step to your goal, hold on to the hope. Take whatever offers itself in the way of work and keep watching, hoping and working toward the end you have in sight. Keep your eyes and ears open to what goes on about you, and soon you will see a way, no matter how small the opening, to take another step forward.

Always try to get work in the field you hope to enter, even if it is the least promising one. Sweep the floor in the scientist's shop if it means you are nearer your dream of scientific exploration. The very atmosphere of the place will teach you something, especially if your eyes and ears are as alert as they should be.

Get a book and study it from cover to cover, until it is part of your thinking. If possible to talk to a professional on the subject, ask your questions. Keep a notebook and a scrapbook, and keep watching for the open door that will surely appear.

No boy or girl has ever found himself in a place of difficulty that some other has not faced and overcome. How many of our great men and women were born with silver spoons in their mouths? Read their biographies, take courage, and hold on and keep alert for opportunity.

Here is an old folk tale for your consideration. Once a boy wanted to get into a beautiful garden, but the gate was locked. His fairy godmother came to him and said, "If you want the key, go through the wishing gate and knock at the first door you see. The gnome that guards the key lives there, and he will give it to you when you knock at his door. Go, and wisdom go with you."

So the boy set out. He walked and walked, but he did not see the gate. He passed two old sticks standing up, and a crosspiece leaning against them and he said, "It couldn't be that." On and on he went, seeing nothing and at last, tired, discouraged and hungry he turned back and said, "I'll have to give up."

Night began to gather and he stumbled on. Suddenly he fell through the ground and into a room where the gnome was having his dinner. "Dear me, are you the gnome that keeps the key?" "I am and you're the blind boy who couldn't see his nose before his face. I even set up three sticks to call your attention to my gate. But no—you looked for a fine bronze one, and you missed the wishing gate."

"Can I have the key?"

"No, the key must be taken through the wishing gate. Go back and find it before you come to me."

If obedience is taught while your child is still a baby, by the time he is three or four, his life will be easier and happier. Dr. Patri explains how to teach obedience in his booklet No. 301, "Obedience."

Foreign Bases

The United States now faces increasing pressure to withdraw troops and equipment from its advanced military air bases, including Okinawa in the Pacific and the four bases in Morocco, which recently became an independent state. Although all overtures to that end will be rejected, the whole matter of bases has been under study by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which is working on a reevaluation of their military value and vulnerability in case of attack.

Having spend around a billion dollars in building and developing those bases, the directors of U.S. defense policy are not certain themselves what might happen to such outposts if war broke suddenly.

Undoubtedly much of the propaganda to prevent those bases from being strongly held, abandoned or, in the case of Okinawa, turned back to Japan, can be traced to Communist origins, for in Moscow Peiping war plans, they figure largely.

Morocco undoubtedly wants the U.S. to hold the bases for the present, partly as a means of obtaining larger grants of foreign aid. But their effectiveness for defense of the U.S. is greatly restricted by limits on the size of American forces which may be stationed there.

In the case of Okinawa, in addition to Army, Navy and Air Force units, a Marine division of 17,500 men has been recently ordered to duty there for a fourteen month tour as a mobile striking force, ready for instant combat action. Although other forces are allowed to bring their families to Okinawa, the Marine dependents must remain at home.

This 467 square mile base, from which Air Force units in World War II took off to bomb Japan, has experienced serious crowding from military installations. The inhabitants like Americans, but a majority are said to favor return to the Japanese rule under which they lived before World War II, in which the U.S. invasion of Okinawa cost 50,000 casualties including more than 12,000 killed.

Another $45,000,000 will be spent to house the Marines, for whom the U.S. is acquiring an additional 38,889 acres. This gives further evidence that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have no thought of abandoning the island, though at the end of World War II leading naval officers disagreed radically over its strategic value.

Admiral R. A. Spruance, then commander of the Pacific fleet was convinced that Okinawa has no further value as a base. He was overruled by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who decided that as a naval and air base, Okinawa was vital to the U.S. defense line in the Far East. The subsequent victory of the Chinese Communists demonstrated Nimitz far-sightedness.

The Communists inspired overtures for restriction and eventual withdrawal of the U.S. from its North African bases, constructed at a cost of more than $400,000,000 have progressed sufficiently to be a cause of deep concern to the Joint Chiefs, who are reported to apprehend the State Department is inclined to make concessions which will further weaken the striking power of those bases, now undermanned and under-equipped.

Reliable sources say that in event of a sudden war, the striking power of the skeleton Air Force units now bases in Morocco would be ineffective, partly because of the French withdrawal from Morocco and the probability that Morocco's new rulers would attempt to restrict the use of U.S. leased air bases as take off points for counter attacks on targets behind the Iron Curtain.

So long as the armed services prevail there will be no retreat from the foreign defense bases which are necessary outposts in the U.S. security perimeter. But further concessions will weaken their strength until their value in the defense pattern could become negligible.

Facts Worth Knowing

Cotton, sugar cane, rice and corn are the most important crops in Louisiana but the fertile soil and favorable climate make it possible to raise almost every variety of crop found in the western hemisphere.

Cattle raising began in southwest Louisiana before it did in Texas, and tradition has it that the celebrated Texas longhorn steer originated in the Bayou state.

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Millions of teen-age girls face Ellen's dilemma. So use the terse advice given below and be sure to send for the sex booklet Ellen employed to help her realize what will do the most good for the most people over the longest period of time. That is the yardstick for determining what is right.

Case R-378: Ellen R., aged 17, is a high schooler who will graduate next term.

"Dr. Crane, I am in a very muddled state of mind," she admitted.

"I come from a fine moral home and have been very active in the church. During the first semester of my senior year, I have been dating a very attractive boy.

"He is a leading athlete. All the girls are crazy about him. But he and I have been going steady for the last couple of months."

"Now he is making demands on me for liberties that I have been taught are not right till after marriage."

"When I object, he argues that I am old-fashioned. He says all the girls do such things nowadays. And he has threatened to jilt me. In fact, last night he did stand me up on a date, and it is very humiliating."

"For our city is not so large but that all the kids know each other. I have been regarded as his steady date, so what will they think if I am suddenly left alone?"

Ellen's problem involves a conflict between social pressure and moral logic.

So I explained to Ellen that nobody else can form her moral decisions for her. Advisers may offer some facts, but she must make the final decision.

"What would you gain by giving in to this boy's demands for illicit sexual privileges?" I began.

"Let's depict your moral problem by drawing a scales beam with two pans thereon."

"If you surrender to this boy, you may win 50 dates with him next semester."

"But now let's see the price you pay for them. First, you will lose woman's greatest charm in the eyes of the male sex, namely, your spunk or independent spirit."

"Thereafter, you will be furtive-eyed, wondering if other people know about your case."

"And if your boy friend touches liquor, then you will be in constant torment, for a drinking man may tell everything."

"For John Barleycorn keeps no secrets. What happens in private may be common knowledge when a man uses liquor, so beware!"

"Second, you may contract gonorrhea and syphilis, the two dangerous venereal diseases. They can lead to permanent sterility."

"Such diseases are not trifling matters even in this age of penicillin and other anti-biotics."

"Third, you may become pregnant. Then you may find it necessary to drop out of school."

"That would almost break the hearts of your Dad and Mother who have idolized you. They want to enjoy your adult happiness as a safely married woman in good standing in the community."

"You are the middle link in a 3-link chain, involving your parents and your future children. So be fair to both groups."

"Fourth, you will betray your unborn baby if you become pregnant. If you bear it out of wedlock, then it will have one strike against it in life."

"If you let it be adopted at birth, your heart will be anguished and you will feel badly for years."

"Fifth, it will be more difficult to marry later on, for you will have this black mark against your record."

"The church leaders for centuries have decided what does the most good for the most people over the longest period of time, is right and moral. What do you think will answer that surefire yardstick?"

Send for my booklet, "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Ellen took a copy home with her. She broke off with the boy. Soon he came back, however, and agreed to date her on her own terms, for he knew she was right.

Red Boss Quoted: 'We Must Push U. S. Into Grave'

WASHINGTON, June 8—UP—A former Polish Communist leader said Friday Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev once declared co-existence is temporary and eventually "we must push" Americans "to the grave."

Seweryn Bialer, who fled to Poland four months ago, also testified that Khrushchev uses the methods of the late Premier Josef Stalin to get rid of his rivals. He said Khrushchev had "adopted the tactics of removing his rivals one by one."

Bialer, once director of anti-American propaganda in Communist Poland, made his remarks to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee through an interpreter. Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) was the only subcommittee member present.

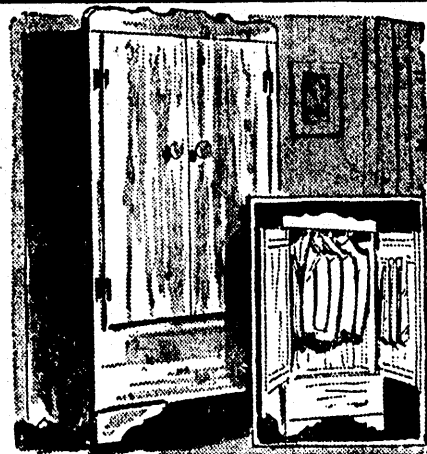

Referring to a Khrushchev speech to the Polish Communist party central committee in Warsaw in April, 1955, he quoted the Russian party leader as having said: "We must realize that co-existence can't be eternal. One of us must one day go to his grave. We do not want to go to the grave. Americans and westerners do not want to go either. We must push them."

"Bialer said he was sure he was quoting Khrushchev almost exactly."

Bialer also said "Khrushchev and company were fighting for power against their antagonist by the same methods Stalin had used."

Legislative Action

House and Senate face floor action on portions of the committee's program.

The Senate will have ready for final passage a five-bill package to:

1. Attempt to block integration suits by withdrawing state permission to sue state or local agencies governing recreation or park facilities, schools and colleges.

2. Place segregation in public parks and recreational facilities under "the state's sovereign police powers." This is similar to a school segregation law adopted in 1954 that was knocked out early this year by a three-judge federal court.

3. Guarantee segregated travel waiting rooms by requiring one area for white intrastate passengers and another for Negro intrastate and other passengers.

4. Require applicants to colleges and universities to present certificates of eligibility and good moral character from school and parish superintendents.

5. Eliminate compulsory school attendance when schools are forced to integrate.

A sixth measure, appropriating $15,000 for committee expense, was blocked in the House Appropriations Committee by the general appropriations bill. No other money bills will be approved until it comes out of committee.

They will have four other segregation committee proposals, introduced after the first group, which attempt to prevent teachers from advocating school integration or joining the outlawed National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, banned under an old law originally aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

The four proposals, in effect, would:

1. Amend teacher tenure laws providing additional ground for dismissal either for being a member or contributing to the NAACP.

2. Provide as another ground for dismissal the advocacy or aiding in bringing about integration in public schools or state colleges.

The Louisiana State University board of supervisors, at a special meeting on segregation, rejected the proposal for requiring certificates of moral character.

At the same meeting, and at two later sessions, the LSU board also killed a proposal to block LSU teams from competing against Negroes.

But three legislators this week introduced a bill "to prohibit all interracial dancing, social functions, entertainments, athletic training, games, sports or contests and other such activities."

The bill is in committee, as are most other segregation proposals not backed by the committee.

Other segregation proposals would:

1. Prohibit "television showing of interracial programs involving certain social contacts between persons of the white and Negro races."

2. Provide for districting of White and Negro schools by the state, not on the local level.

3. Require separate facilities for white and Negro races — sanitary, drinking and seating — in all public buildings.

4. Require separate facilities for white and Negro races in restaurants and hotels.

5. Require "persons, firms and corporations" to furnish separate facilities for all employees, "sanitary facilities, eating places and drinking facilities."

But two segregation bills were aimed in committee this week. They primarily would have affected Catholic parochial schools and colleges.

The bills, offered by Rep. Louis Folse of Arabi, would:

1. Cut off state funds and recognition of graduates to any private elementary or secondary school that integrated.

2. Wipe out property tax exemption for any private college or university that integrated.

The Senate Education Committee reported the bills unfavorably and Folse made no effort to revive them by floor action.

Cleveland Exiles

out of wedlock to her eldest daughter, 17.

The judge said he exiled the family only as a last resort.

Later the judge told a reporter: "Obviously, the taxpayers of Cuyahoga County (Greater Cleveland) cannot be expected to support all the indigent people from all over who want to come here to live."

"But I am disturbed when I find a mother, no matter what her station in life, blocked by law in her attempt to improve the lot of herself and her family."

The judge said the welfare authorities told him there was no way to aid the family here under Ohio law.

To get the plight of the family before the court, welfare officials charged the woman with neglect of six children under 16 by keeping them out of school.

"I kept them out because they did not have any shoes or clothes to wear," she said.

"I won't go back South," she declared.

But the judge asked her, "Do you want your children to starve? Do you want that little baby to die?"

"I'll do the best I can and if that's not enough, then it's up to the Lord," she replied.

But today, welfare workers went to the Negro's tenement home in a slum area soon to be razed on Cleveland's East Side and escorted the family to the train.

going to work as long as I can walk but I did want the retiree benefit assured so I could have a back log if I ever needed it!"

P. A. Poag, city secretary treasurer and tax collector, will start his 42nd year in office in August. The House passed a bill in 1954 in which he was given retirement if at any time he needed this assistance. Two fine men are both of these gentlemen and they deserve any financial aid the city can bestow for a job unusually well performed.

Hotel Alvis is undergoing a big change in its appearance. We were informed that it will be greatly beautified and modernized when a new front is added.

The Kall family regred this hostelry with deep affection for to them it represents the lifework of a previous generation who by excellent business acumen were able to build up one of the largest and most important hostelries in this section.

They are not intending to let it be surpassed by other hostelries and this is one of the reasons for the beautification and modernization at this time.

Monroians are possessed of the characteristics that lead one to aid these in actual need.

We have only to call attention to the Aubrey Tisdale case, that of a youth confined to his bed with a broken back. His story was recently again re-told and generous persons have today donated nearly $300. But members of the Delta Kappa Pi, high school sorority are rallying to the aid of Randy Winfrey, two year old, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Winfrey. What do you think these sorority young girls are planning?

They are going to mow lawns and donate every cent they take in to the cause of this boy who is incurably afflicted with cancer.

He is now in a Houston hospital and his medical needs are piling up which has caused the girls mentioned to decide to mow grass in lawns. They start on this work June 11 and do it for a week. They charge only $2 a lawn but if one wants to pay over and above this sum it will be thankfully received.

The telephone is 2-6690. Call and let the girls have fun and profit working your lawn over and think what it means to that little sufferer in a big Houston hospital.

Mrs. I. C. Castles returned Wednesday by Delta Airlines from North Carolina where she saw her oldest son, Ira Castles Jr., graduate from the University of North Carolina with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Economics.

He is now teaching this summer in Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio. This is a college largely attended by persons of the Quaker belief.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKenzie of this city entertained at Palowsky's for a triple occasion.

June 6, birthday of Paul McKenzie, and wedding anniversary of both daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Cubbie Roane celebrated their seventh anniversary and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Soulier celebrated their fifth.

Special guests were Miss Phoebe Miller of this city, Mrs. George Lynn, Houston, Texas, sister of Mrs. Paul McKenzie, and Miss Eugenia Greene, Lake Charles, La. Maxine McKenzie and Mrs. Soulier is the former Carla-Beth McKenzie.

had earmarked only $500,000 for this purpose.

Other North Louisiana area projects received allocations as follows: Mooringsport dam restudy, $35,000, same as the House and budget figure; Cooper dam planning, $125,000, same as the House figure; Ferrell's bridge reservoir in East Texas, $4,300,000, same as the House and budget figure; Texarkana reservoir, $1,226,000, same as the House and budget figure; McGee Bend dam, $4 million, also same as House and budget; restudy of Hugo dam and reservoir, $15,000, same as House.

McKinney bayou and Barkman creek in Arkansas, $25,000, same as House figure; and Walnut bayou in Arkansas, $25,000, no House allocation.

The appropriation for lower Mississippi and tributaries flood control was hiked by the Senate committee from the House figure of $56,030,000 to $62,791,000. This figure included $100,000 for Red river backwater areas, same as the House and budget figure; $1,400,000 for Bayous Boeuf and Tensas, also same as House and budget, and $8,962,000 for general investigations, compared with the House figure of $7,962,000.

Senator Ellender said he hopes that the increase in investigation money can be used by army engineers to undertake a review of the Red river bank stabilization program, a study of the fresh water bayou project in Vermillion parish, and a restudy of the Calcasieu pass and ship channel at Lake Charles.

discernment to appreciate the fine ARTS. The appeal of fine ACTS, e.g. circus ACTS, ACTS of kindness, etc., may well be obvious to all.

5. It's truly nice to contemplate "nice warm" RED. If it were not you would not refer to it in such teasing terms as "nice warm." s for BED, this depends on the circumstances. In the tropics or in the heat of summer a "nice warm" BED would hardly be nice to contemplate.

12. "Greatly annoyed," yes. If he maid let the whole teapot DROP on the teatable. But, to let a DRIP might well be a minor thing — a DROP or two possibly and little cause to be greatly annoyed."

17. THREAT is best. "Throat,"

as it stands, simply means an ordinary healthy THROAT, and there is no apparent reason why this should prompt any special precautions. THREAT is clearly a good answer.

18. SAILOR is more apt. It is VERY EASY, rather than just "possible," to associate a TAILOR with a cutter, since the two work in conjunction with each other. The association of a SAILOR with a cutter (vessel) is comparatively unlikely, but definitely POSSIBLE.

21. SEW is the surer answer.

The clue refers to both men and women, of course. Practically all men will consider SEWING a most boring job and some women too. Also, it is doubly so since the border is a "particularly long one." To SCW a long border in a garden can be a pleasant task for many men and many women.

3. It doesn't matter WHICH WAY you send it as long as you send it in time. The particular DAY you send it will decide whether it arrives in time or not.

6. In face of great danger, one simply DOES, or does not, remain unperturbed, according to one's nature. This is a psychological fact; perturbation is mental. It is not a question of what one CAN, or cannot, do. Thus WOULD is preferable to COULD.

12. DELAY CAN HAVE serious consequences, such as DECAY, which is ITSELF a consequence.

13. It is the SINNER, not the SIN, who may need to be forgiven. In some cases one's SON may indeed need to be forgiven.

16. A PART in a play may be a success due to the one actor concerned. The successful SIGNING of a PACT may be largely due to one man's efforts, but the ACTUAL success of it depends on subsequent events, which cannot rest on one man.

19. As far as the average person is concerned, PRISON is an excellent institution — it is only unpleasant for crooks. POISON is unpleasant from anybody's viewpoint.

22. "Risky" to employ a man whose WORD cannot be relied upon — he's the type who MAY let you down even if his actual WORK is alright. If his WORK cannot be MORE than a risk, "Risk" would be an understatement.

23. You're always anxious to see a STORM ending, particularly a big or overpowering one. As for STORY, many a one has action and excitement in the middle and tapers off to an indifferent ending in which case you are but mildly interested in the endings.

After Brawl 'Mr. Universe' Reunited With Jayne Mansfield

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—"Mr. Universe," showing a few down-to-earth scars from a Washington brawl, today flew into the carefree arms of actress Jayne Mansfield, a girl with plenty of worldly charms and a box of bandages. Miss Mansfield had carted the patch-up kit to Idlewild Airport an hour in advance of the arrival of her muscular boy friend, Mickey Hargitay, 26, who has been flexing his biceps with Mae West's night club troupe.

Mickey didn't seem to want any bandages when he arrived, though. But he took plenty of medication in the form of kisses, whispered words of endearment and embraces as he and Miss Mansfield played to a 30-minute mass interview. Hargitay, at least for the moment, a strong silent type, had little to say. Miss Mansfield had plenty, mostly about the virtues of Hargitay, interspersed with acid remarks about Miss West. "He had to choose between his job and me—and he gave up his job," said Miss Mansfield. Hargitay was involved in an altercation with another of Miss West's strong boys, Chuck Krauser, during a news conference in Miss West's dressing room in Washington Wednesday night. Hargitay was fined an assault charge against Krauser, claiming he was innocently knocked down. He said Miss West was "very jealous" of his own attentions to Miss Mansfield; but didn't make clear what this had to do with his whopping.

About two weeks ago, added Miss Mansfield, she "offered to tear up his contract" and give him a better one boosting his pay from $300 to $500 a week. "If he would give up seeing me," said Still, Miss Mansfield said she didn't want to get a name calling charge with Miss West, a "beautiful specimen for 64 years."

Hargitay broke in with a denial that the row was over Miss West and, taking his cue from Miss Mansfield, added: "No 26-year-old fellow is going to fight over a near-70-year-old woman."

Senators Seek Specific Orders On TVA Spending WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee recommended today that Congress spell out specifically what authority the Tennessee Valley Authority should have in spending its revenue funds. The recommendation was contained in a report approved by the committee to accompany an appropriation bill providing $5,357,000 in federal money for the TVA in the beginning July 1. The committee reported it "believes it is unwise" for the TVA to be permitted to add units at existing plants without specific congressional approval of each job, and added: "The committee urges the appropriate legislative committee to act on this matter in order to clarify this situation before the next appropriation request is submitted to Congress."

Arkansas River Development Gets Committee Okay

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee gave its approval today to proposals to proceed with a development program for the Arkansas River in Arkansas and Oklahoma. It okayed appropriations of $4,250,000 to start work on three reservoirs on the river and its tributaries where President Eisenhower had recommended specifically against any funds. The committee amount compared with $1,000,000 recently voted by the House. What the Senate committee did, said Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), was to approve $2,000,000 to start the Eufaula dam; $1,500,000 to start the Keystone dam; and $750,000 for the Dardanelle dam. Eufaula and Keystone are in Oklahoma, Dardanelle in Arkansas.

Oregon has almost 54,000 acres of state parks.

Negro Appointed Methodist Pastor In White Church

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8 (AP)—A Negro minister, the first ever appointed a full member of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Church, told the press today his all-white congregation at Old Mystic, Conn., has doubled since he became supply pastor last October.

The Rev. Simon Peter Montgomery, 31, was expected to assume his new post with the conference later today. He talked with reporters by phone from Old Mystic.

His parish has received 41 new members, giving it a total of 81, including nine persons accepted last Sunday, he disclosed.

Unanimous approval of Rev. Montgomery's appointment was joined yesterday with acceptance without dissent of a conference report which declared that "there is presently racial discrimination in housing and in employment in New England." The report called for "passive resistance (love force) to achieve across-the-board integration."

Baton Rouge Gangs Hits To Shut Out Monroe, 5 To 0

Sports Held To 5 Hits By Umbricht; Try Again Tonite

The Baton Rouge Rebels ganged three hits in each of the second, seventh, and eighth innings to score all their runs in defeating the Monroe Sports, 5 to 0, here last night with five-hit pitching from Jim Umbricht.

The Sports, falling with bat support, saw their own Jerry Neal, winner of seven this season, take his second defeat, but Monroe tries again tonight to even accounts with Baton Rouge when they meet the Rebels in the series final at 7:30 o'clock at Legion Memorial Stadium.

It was a fast, well-pitched game in which Umbricht walked only one and Neal gave only two free passes. The first six innings were complete in one hour, the next three in 45 minutes.

Jimmy Smith led the Reb attack with three hits, but Al Mendoza's bat proved the most damaging to the Sports as he drove in three of the five Rebel runs.

Jimmy Smith and Roy McKee led off the second inning for Baton Rouge with single, McKee's lick getting through Roy Mantle in right to set the runners up at second and third. Al Mendoza drove both home with a single.

Neal then held the Rebels hitless until Bob Meador belted a single in the sixth, and then the Rebels clustered their hits again in the seventh. Smith, McKee, and Ken Adkins hit successive singles after one was out, Adkins' drive into left field scoring Smith. McKee tallied on Mendoza's sacrifice fly.

The Rebels bunched three more hits with an error in the eighth, but could manage only one run. Singles by Billy Walters and Meador, and Joe Garcia aboard on an error loaded the sacks with none out. Smith singled Walters across. Then Neal fanned McKee, and Adkins hit into a double play.

The Sports best scoring chances were in the fifth when Jim Johnston and Morris Millet were aboard on singles, again when Joe Miller and Millet were on with singles in the seventh, and when Keith Mitchell tripled with only one out in the ninth but couldn't score.

Wynn Presents Indians, 9-0, Whitewash Of Yanks

NEW YORK, June 8 (U)—Chico Carrasquel and Al Rosen each batted in three runs tonight as the Cleveland Indians swatted 12 hits in support of righthander Early Wynn to beat the New York Yankees 9-0 and trim their American League lead to 3 1/2 games.

The largest crowd in the majors this season, 50,812, sat in on the Indians' fourth victory over New York in six tries this year.

Rosen, who homered with a man on in a three-run eighth that put the game well beyond reach, singled home a run in the first inning after two walks by loser Whitely Ford. The stubby southpaw, looking for his eighth victory, took his third defeat. The Tribe tagged him for two runs in the second and three in the fifth, his last inning.

Patterson Storms Jackson To Claim Divided Decision

NEW YORK, June 8 (U)—Young Floyd D. Patterson stormed past the flailing fists of tireless Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson tonight to take a giant step toward the vacant heavyweight title on a split decision in 12 furious rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Both judges voted for the 21-year-old former Olympic champion by a solid margin but referee Harry Kessler scored it for Jackson. The biggest Garden crowd in years yelled its approval of the two judges' votes.

As a result of the victory, Patterson may get a September match with Archie Moore, the light heavy champ, for the title left vacant when Rocky Marciano retired.

The closest thing to a knockdown came in the fifth round when Patterson, the 2 to 1 favorite, hopped on the floor from a body punch by Jackson. Referee Kessler ruled it no knockdown.

Patterson weighed 178 Jackson 193 1/2.
 Time after time Patterson's quick bursts of punches wobbled Jackson's knees only to have the Hurricane come back winging with body punches.

Don Johnson tripled with one on in the seventh inning yesterday afternoon to break a 4-4 deadlock and enable the Cubs to go on to defeat the Tigers, 8-4. Renwick was the winner while both Henton and Campbell served on the hill for the Tigers.

Cambell turned in a pair of hits for the Bengals.
 V. F. W. found its first victory which was a 10-7 tumble of the Reds. Grubbs gave out only four safeties to the Crimsos. McNabb and Russel were the top batsmen for V. F. W. and Young was the pacer for the losers. Sims was charged with the defeat. Oden and McClendon served behind the plate.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Exercise has an effect on weight loss because it burns up calories.

Correct Posture Will Improve Measurements

Today I am giving you the answers to the questions which were printed in this column earlier in the week.

Correct Answers

1. You can take an inch or so off of your abdominal and waist measurements by pulling your abdomen in rather than allowing the muscles to be lax. You can also add to your bust measurement by assuming correct posture; abdomen in, spine straight, lifting the rib cage.
2. The usual weight and height charts are average weights and heights for different ages. The average man and woman gain too much as they grow older. Also, bony structure is an important factor.
3. People often grow taller even after the age of 25 although most people have reached their full height by the age of 25.
4. There is no reason why your figure should change because you bear a child. There is no change in bony structure. Any weight you may have gained can be lost by calorie counting and stretched.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX —

- Sex Education Books
- Break The Deadlock
- Love Varies Its Pattern

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Yesterday my 13-year-old daughter read your column, which contained a letter from a girl who became pregnant after a week-end date. Questions followed, which I wasn't quite prepared to answer. I wonder if you have any reading matter I could give her. She's a very intelligent girl and accepts all information that is satisfactorily given. You got me into this. Now get me out!

DEAR MRS. B.B.: And here I come, flying on four engines. So many fine books have been written to present young people with a clear uncomplicated view of sex, that the difficulty is to reject, rather than select, some. Two notable recent additions to the list are: "For Girls Only" by Frank Howard Richardson (Tupper and Love, Inc., Atlanta, Ga., $2.75), and "The Stork Didn't Bring You" by Lois Pemberton (Hermitage Press, New York, $2.75.)

The former has a companion book, "For Boys Only." These books present informal discussions between a woman doctor in the first case, the author, in the second, and adolescent groups.

"The Stork Didn't Bring You" is a most complete book on the subject, straightforward and tastefully written on a delicate theme. These books could be put in your daughter's hands without a qualm if you'd be interested in other literature. I have a book list on Sex Education for Teen-agers. The material runs from 25-cent pamphlets to $3.50 books. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me, in care of this newspaper, and the list is yours.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Five years ago, when I was in school, I went steady with a classmate. Our friendship broke up soon after I graduated and I met another girl soon after. We've had several dates but I was never serious about her.

Now the first girl has come back into my life. After one date with her, the second girl practically refuses to go with me though I've coaxed her out a few times. Now I think I like her best but still date the first one.

When I kiss one girl, I invariably think of the other. What can I do? You probably think I have a one-track mind. I'm 20 years old.

DEAR BUSTER: This is a mind? Son, you can't even get it out of the station, much less keep it on one track. Look around for a third gal, and I bet she takes your mind off the other conquests.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My fiancé and I are a devoted couple and plan to be married this fall. The other night we were discussing couples we know who are married or engaged, yet seem to lack real love. Is that the trend today? Don't you think young people of today skip the most important part of marriage?

DEAR JEANNE: You're so absorbed in your own complete happiness that you expect everyone else to follow an exact pattern set down by you, as a loving, engaged couple.

Love is a very un-standardized thing. People have different ways of showing it and very often the undemonstrative couple shares a love with very deep roots.

Don't judge by appearances. Note the quiet little considerations, the small tenderesses, the tiny attentions so delicately given they could easily be missed by an onlooker.

Today's trend in love is no different from that of any previous time; it's as deep, as true and as eternal as ever. The cases where it isn't sincere, or where it's fleeting, are the exception, rather than the rule.

Verdict Is Given In The Death Of C. E. McKenzie

Funeral services for C. E. McKenzie, 59, prominent Monroe insurance man and former congressman, who died of a "self-inflicted pistol wound" Thursday where held yesterday at 4 p.m. from the Mulhearn Funeral Chapel.

Interment followed in Riverview Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

pallbearers were Tom Munholland, Carroll Royce, D. X. Elliott, James A. Perry, George Mouk and Myatt.

Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner stated last night that, "according to all physical evidence the man apparently came to his death as a result of a self-inflicted pistol shot wound of the head."

A single bullet fired from a .380 automatic pistol into the right temple ended the ex-congressman's life, officials said.

McKenzie's death came Thursday about 11:30 a.m. at the home of his Monroe insurance business partner, Harold Mouk.

main feature—an American Legion proposal to increase federal pensions to $105 a month for World War I, World War II and Korean War veterans.

The administration estimated this plan, in its original form, would cost more than 77 billion dollars by the year 2000, an estimate which the Legion disputed as too high.

In following the Legion plan into the bill, the committee decided to leave the income limits on eligibility at the present rates instead of raising them, as the Legion sought.

Chairman Olin Teague (D-Tex.) said the committee decided on a single-package bill as result of what he called "lack of leadership" among the veterans organizations in presenting their proposals. The veterans groups had been squabbling over whose bill should come first.

Teague, who said he voted against the omnibus measure, told reporters the committee yielded to "an overwhelming number of mandates for liberalization of veterans benefits without any undue anxiety from the veterans organizations as to priorities and basic policy."

In addition to the Legion's pension plan, a committee spokesman said these provisions were adopted for House action at today's closed-door committee session:

1. A Disabled American Veterans backed proposal which would increase compensation to veterans for service-connected injury generally by 10 to 15 per cent.
2. One hundred per cent service disabled veterans would have their compensation raised from $181 to $224 a month.
3. A committee spokesman estimated this provision alone would cost about a half billion dollars the first year.
4. Pensions for Spanish war veterans' widows would be raised from $54 and $67 a month to $75 a month.
5. A provision to raise the basic pension rates for widows of World War I, II, and Korean War veterans from $50.40 a month to $75 a month, with corresponding increases for dependents.
6. A proposal, part of the principle in a pension bill backed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, for a 20 per cent pension premium for veterans who served overseas.
7. An amendment to give widows of World War II and Korean War veterans more liberal compensation treatment, which is now accorded World War I widows when the husband dies.
8. An increase from $150 to $200 in the federal burial allowance for a veteran.

Welfare Board

To pay the increase, the board approved a supplementary allocation of almost $800,000 for next month's old age checks.

Also approved was a total welfare allotment of 11 million dollars for August, of which 7.4 million will go to old age assistance recipients.

In a statement after the meeting, Mrs. Parker said the increase "confirms to the express wishes of Gov. Long."

A bill to make the $65-$120 payment permanent has already passed the House and is awaiting Senate action. The measure is supported by Gov. Long to fulfill a campaign pledge.

Assistant Welfare Director Otis Edwards cautioned the board that sales tax exemption proposals advanced at the current legislative session could endanger the increased old age assistance schedule. The bulk of the state's portion of welfare funds comes from state sales tax revenue.

"If all those exemption bills pass," Edwards warned, "we'll not have enough money to pay $65 a month old age assistance."

Mrs. Parker asked Mrs. Wilma Lockhart, the governor's executive secretary, to inform the governor of Edwards' statement. Mrs. Lockhart represented Long at the meeting.

Under another bill before the Legislature revamping the Welfare Board, the governor's executive counsel or executive secretary could represent him on the board.

Other members attending today's meeting were Miss Bernice Edwards of Ponchartroula, reappointed by the governor, and J. V. Unverzagt of Crowley, a new appointee.

Other members either resigned to comply with a legislative request or were addressed out of office in a Long-backed move against members who failed to heed the request. The governor has not yet appointed the board's entire membership.

Missing Son Of News Columnist Returns Safely

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—News paper columnist Dorothy Kilgallen's son turned up safe and sound today after a late date led to a report that he was missing.

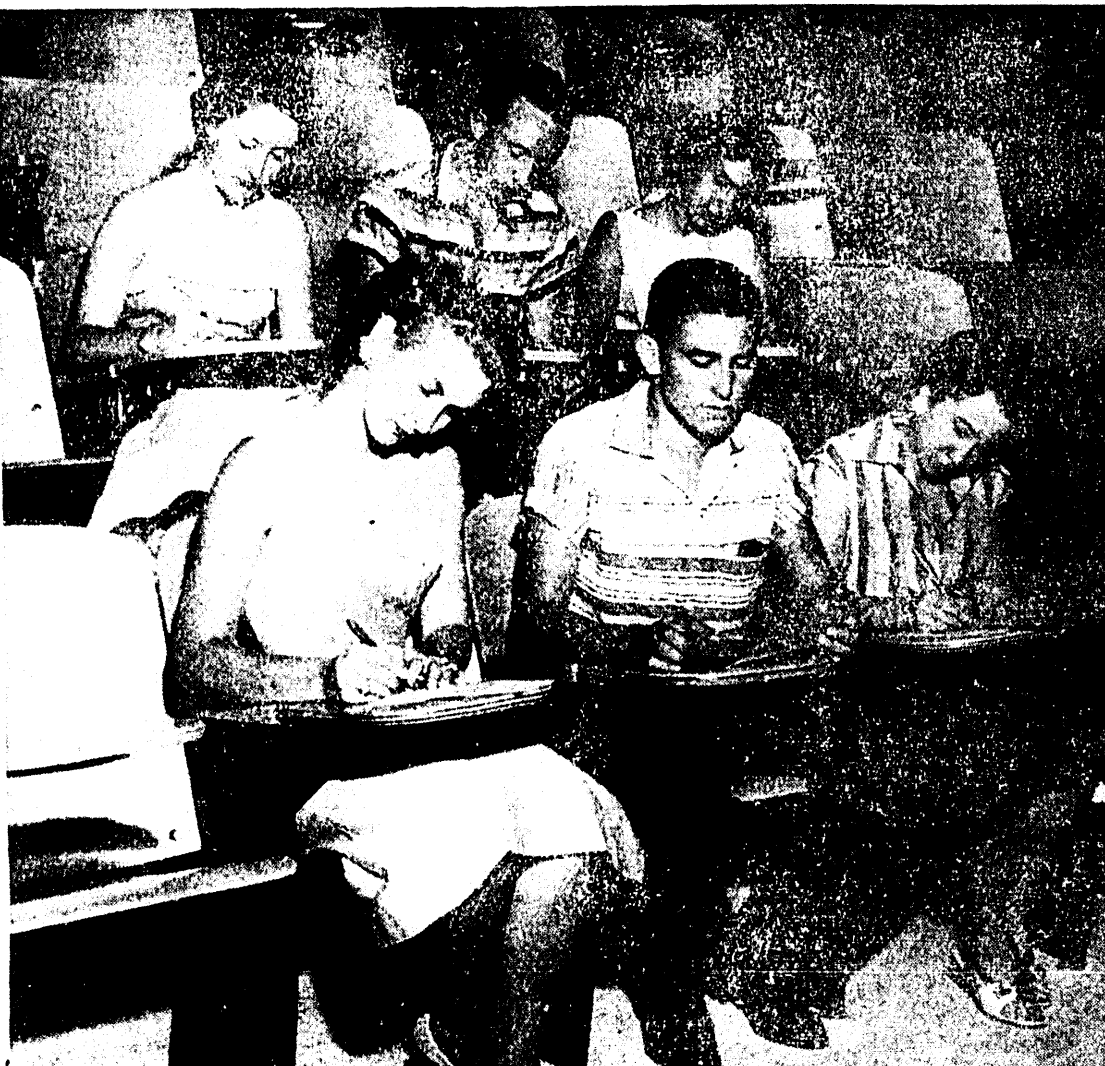

Shortly before noon, Miss Kilgallen filed a report with the Missing Persons Bureau listing Richard Kilgallen Jr., 14, as missing since 8:30 a.m. Thursday. A 14-state alarm was sent out for him.

In private life, Miss Kilgallen is Mrs. Richard Kilgallen, wife of the Broadway producer. Together, they form a husband-wife radio team and Miss Kilgallen also has a regular television spot on a quiz show.

It turned out, said Detective Lt. William Nevins, that Kilgallen attended his regular classes yesterday at a private school. Last night he was a guest at a party at a friend's home.

After the party, Nevins said, Kilgallen escorted a girl guest to her home at Douglaston, Queens, about eight miles out on Long Island from mid-Manhattan.

Nevins said it was late this morning before the youth got back to Manhattan and that he Central

This softening language was proposed by Rep. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.). The amended amendment was then approved on another standing vote of 183-3.

An attempt to write into the legislation a requirement that the President report to Congress his findings on Yugoslav aid was defeated 96-92 on a standing vote.

Sharp debate preceded the voting.

As the legislation now stands in the House, it provides approximately $3,800,000,000 for the Eisenhower administration's mutual security program, an effort to strengthen America's allies against any threats of Communist aggression.

If the Senate votes more money for the program than the House does, the legislation will go to a joint conference committee, where the administration hopes a compromise may be reached.

Government MVD (secret police) forces got word of the attack and sealed off the area, arresting a group of heavily armed nationalists south of Shepetovka, the sources said.

The attack preceded by six days a demonstration by the anti-Russian underground in the Republic of Georgia, Stalin's home state.

$3.5 Billion Loss In Stocks Blamed On Ike's Illness

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—News of the President's illness opened the floodgates of selling today and sent the stock market down in its hardest fall in eight months.

On the basis of the movement of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks it is estimated that the entire September - October decline erased an estimated 20 billion dollars from the quoted value of securities on the New York Stock Exchange. All that was regained and the market went to new highs.

Today's fall wiped out an estimated 3 1/2 billion dollars. By contrast, the first drop triggered by the Sept. 24 heart attack chopped off an estimated 13 billions.

Brokers today took a relatively calm view of the situation. Many advised a "wait and see" attitude.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped back $3.00 at $177.00. The fall was the greatest since Oct. 10 when the average was off $4.60. Currently the average is comfortably above the 1956 low of $171.60 touched last January.

The industrial component of the average today was down $4.30, rails were off $3.20 and utilities lost 60 cents.

There were 1,192 individual issues traded of which 101 managed to advance while 976 declined. Two stocks made new highs and 153 touched new lows for the year.

Volume quickly stepped up to 3,630,000 shares, second largest total of the year topped by 3,900,000 shares changing hands Feb. 29. Yesterday there were 1,630,000 shares traded in a higher market.

Corporate bonds were steady. U. S. governments were higher.

Highlights From The Ticker Tape

Stock prices suffered their sharp break this year yesterday on the news that President Eisenhower had been taken to a hospital. A late rally covered some of the losses.

Immediate reaction to news that the President is suffering an intestinal disorder and has been taken to Walter Reed Hospital as a "precautionary measure" was a sell-off which carved more than $4 billion from market values in a market reminiscent of the September 26 break which followed the heart attack.

Directors of the Motorola Company are scheduled to meet for dividend action on June 15th and it is believed that the regular 3 1/2 cent quarterly payment will be authorized.

Revised stock appraisal of the Scott Paper company states that stock is an investment quality issue which offers good long term growth possibilities. The stock usually sells on a liberal price-earnings ratio in contrast with other paper company equities. Another record high in sales and earnings for the first quarter of 1956 reflects both the benefits of the company's acquisitions and the increasing demand for its products. Based upon consolidated results, sales for the first quarter ended March 31, 1956 were $66.8 million vs $63.4 million for the like 1955 quarter.

The prospector division of Curtiss-Wright at Caldwell, N.J., has been awarded an additional $9,000,000 contract for turboelectric propellers for new Douglas C-133A turboprop transport plane.

The major appliance division of the General Electric at Louisville announced factory prices on 1957 line of automatic washers and dryers are being increased on the average of 8 per cent.

Assault Suspect Captured

MER ROUGE, June 8 (Special) — A 30-year-old Mer Rouge white woman, mother of four children, raped at her home today about 11:30 a.m. identified her Negro assailant this afternoon about 1 o'clock, according to Morehouse sheriff E. L. Hinton.

Hinton stated that Emmett Henderson, 46, Negro farm laborer, was apprehended by a six man posse about 400 yards south of the woman's home.

He stated the assaulted woman "positively named Henderson as her assailant."

The Negro, who has been apprehended and questioned in connection with two similar cases involving women of his own race, had no comment to make.

He is being held in an "unknown" jail for further investigation. Sheriff Hinton said. Charges will probably be filed tomorrow, he added.

The woman told officers, her Negro assailant was hiding behind a door of her house located five miles east of Mer Rouge, as she entered.

Upon entering the house the woman said the Negro threw a raincoat over her head, tied her hands with baby diapers and gagged her mouth.

800 Registered At Northeast In One-Day Period

Northeast State's first day of summer school registration reached about 800 Friday, the director of admissions announced. The total surpasses the first day figures of last year's summer session.

Enrollment will continue until noon today in the newly-completed air conditioned classroom and administration building, most recent structure to be added to the campus buildings.

Students who were unable to register Friday according to the alphabetical plan may do so this morning along with a continuation of the schedule previously announced. The time program follows: R. S. 8:30; T. U. V. 9:10; W. X. Y. Z. 10:11 a.m.

Students entering Northeast for the first time should present high school transcripts and those from colleges which they have attended in order to facilitate registration.

Veterans who are planning to attend college on the G. I. or Korean Bill are requested to clear certification through their local Veterans Administration offices.

A maximum of ten semester hours may be earned during the summer school, and classes will be held five days each week, Monday through Friday. The daily schedule starts at 7:20 a.m. and ends at 1:40 p.m.

The summer session offers special opportunities for high school graduates who wish to begin their college work at this time. Many regular college students attend the summer school to shorten the time required for graduation.

Northeast's summer program also is designed to meet current educational needs of teachers and administrators and to provide specific courses that will answer certification and other requirements.

Special features will include workshops and conferences directed by consultants of state and national reputation. The regular faculty will be assisted in some areas by various visiting professors and specialists.

The laboratory school will be in operation to serve those who wish to do student teaching and observing.

Dormitory facilities are available for both men and women, and meals may be secured at the college cafeteria from Monday breakfast through Friday luncheon.

Bulganin's Note Urge Army Slashes By Russia, West Nations In Germany

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin, in a letter to President Eisenhower made public tonight called on the United States, Britain and France to join with Russia in withdrawing some of their armed forces from Germany.

"This undoubtedly would prepare the ground for more decisive steps in this matter," Bulganin said in the letter dated June 6 and delivered here yesterday.

Enclosed in the letter, as made public by the White House, was the Soviet Union's May 14 statement announcing Russian plans for reducing the size of the Soviet armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

Bulganin's letter declared the United Nation's Disarmament subcommittee, which has been trying to solve the disarmament problem for years, actually "is retarding progress in this matter."

He said "it is difficult to expect" any "concrete results in the area of disarmament in the very near future" as a result of these talks.

Bulganin proposed what he described as "a new approach." He said that, until such time as an international agreement on disarmament is reached, each country could take "concrete measures for reducing armaments" on its own.

As a starter, he proposed that the United States, Britain and France join with Russia in cutting

Posse Captures Man Who Escaped EC Prison Farm

LAKE PROVIDENCE, June 8 (Special)—A 33-year-old Negro East Carol prison farm escapee meekly surrendered to a sheriff's posse today after spending one night in the heavily wooded area southwest of Lake Providence.

The Negro, Arthur James Ferguson, was apprehended in a thick briar patch west of the old Phillips plantation on highway 45 about noon today.

The man escaped from the prison farm about 3:30 p.m. Thursday, according to E. Carroll parish sheriff J. W. "Red" Gilbert.

A search led by Gilbert Thursday afternoon was called off around midnight due to the high temperature in the heavy foliage and underbrush where the prisoner had made his way.

Bloodhounds used in the search this morning picked up the escapee's trail after about two hours, quickly leading officers to the crouching figure among the brush.

Ferguson was serving a four year sentence for aggravated battery. He will be charged with simple escape.

Union Parish Rodeo Will Close Tonight

FARMERVILLE, June 8 (Special)—The annual Union Parish spring rodeo began here Thursday and will continue through Saturday.

The rodeo is sponsored by the Union Parish Saddle Club, Inc., and offers performances each night at 8 p.m.

A prize consisting of a pony with saddle, bridle and blanket, will be given away Saturday night. Each person buying a ticket any or all nights will be eligible to register for the prize.

PERMITS ISSUED

Building permits totaling $188,760 were issued in West Monroe in May, C. E. Frost, city building inspector, has announced Friday.

The largest permit taken was for $82,000, for an addition to the Highland Elementary school.

Twenty-four other permits were issued, the inspector added.

There are 33,200 federal employees in Colorado, an increase of 42 per cent since 1950.

Public Is Warned Beward Of Bogus Fire Inspectors

The Monroe citizenry were warned yesterday to be on guard for persons posing as fire inspectors.

Capt. C. W. Fisher, Monroe deputy fire marshal, said that during the past two days two men posing as "firemen inspected" houses on the southside.

Nothing was reported taken from the houses during these "inspection". The fire marshal said the men were definitely not authorized to perform inspections of any nature.

Fisher advised that it would be wise to call police immediately if any person who referred to himself as a fireman wanted to perform an inspection of a dwelling.

Red Boss Quoted: 'We Must Push U. S. Into Grave'

WASHINGTON, June 8—UP—A former Polish Communist leader said Friday Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev once declared co-existence is temporary and eventually "we must push" Americans "to the grave."
Seweryn Bialer, who fled to Poland four months ago, also testified that Khrushchev uses the methods of the late Premier Josef Stalin to get rid of his rivals. He said Khrushchev had "adopted the tactics of removing his rivals one by one."

Bialer, once director of anti-American propaganda in Communist Poland, made his remarks to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee through an interpreter. Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) was the only subcommittee member present.

Referring to a Khrushchev speech to the Polish Communist party central committee in Warsaw in April, 1955, he quoted the Russian party leader as having said:

"We must realize that co-existence can't be eternal. One of us must one day go to his grave. We do not want to go to the grave. Americans and westerners do not want to go either. We must push them."

"Bialer said he was sure he was quoting Khrushchev almost exactly."

Bialer also said "Khrushchev and company were fighting for power against their antagonist by the same methods Stalin had used."

Using the liquidation of former Soviet Secret Police Chief Lavrentia Beria as an example, he said many of the charges against Beria were "invented."

After Brawl 'Mr. Universe' Reunited With Jayne Mansfield

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—"Mr. Universe" showing a few down-to-earth scars from a Washington brawl, today flew into the caressing arms of actress Jayne Mansfield, a gal with plenty of worldly charms and a box of bandages.

Miss Mansfield had carted the patch-up kit to Idlewild Airport an hour in advance of the arrival of her muscular boy friend, Mickey Hargitay, 26, who has been flexing his biceps with Mae West's night club troupe.

Mickey didn't seem to want any bandages when he arrived, though. But he took plenty of medication in the form of kisses, whispered words of endearment and embraces as he and Miss Mansfield played to a 30-minute mass interview.

Hargitay, at least for the moment a strong silent type, had little to say. Miss Mansfield had plenty, mostly about the virtues of Hargitay, interspersed with acid remarks about Miss West. "He had to choose between his job and me—and he gave up his job," said Miss Mansfield.

Hargitay was involved in an altercation with another of Miss West's strong boys, Chuck Krauser, during a news conference in Miss West's dressing room in Washington Wednesday night.

Hargitay has filed an assault charge against Krauser, claiming he was innocently knocked down. He said Miss West was "very jealous" of his own attentions to Miss Mansfield; but didn't make clear what this had to do with his whopping.

About two weeks ago, added Miss Mansfield, she "offered to tear up his contract" and give him a better one. "He said he would give me $300 a week," "if he would give up seeing me."

Still, Miss Mansfield said she didn't want to get into a name-calling with Miss West, a "beautiful specimen for 64 years."

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8 (AP)—A Negro minister, the first ever appointed a full member of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Church—told the press today his all-white congregation at Old Mystic, Conn., has doubled since he became supply pastor last October.

The Rev. Simon Peter Montgomery, 31, was expected to assume his new post with the conference later today. He talked with reporters by phone from Old Mystic.

His parish has received 41 new members, giving it a total of 81, including nine persons accepted last Sunday, he disclosed.

Unanimous approval of Rev. Montgomery's appointment was joined yesterday with acceptance without dissent of a conference report which declared that "there is presently racial discrimination in housing and in employment in New England." The report called for "passive resistance (love force)" to achieve a cross-the-board integration.

Baton Rouge Gangs Hits To Shut Out Monroe, 5 To 0

Sports Held To 5 Hits By Umbricht; Try Again Tonite

The Baton Rouge Rebels banged three hits in each of the second, seventh, and eighth innings to score all their runs in defeating the Monroe Sports, 5 to 0, here last night with five-hit pitching from Jim Umbricht.

The Sports, failing with bat support, saw their own Jerry Neal, winner of seven this season, take his second defeat, but Monroe tries again tonight to even accounts with Baton Rouge when they meet the Rebels in the series final at 7:30 o'clock at Legion Memorial Stadium.

It was a fast, well-pitched game in which Umbricht walked only one and Neal gave only two free passes. The first six innings were complete in one hour, the next three in 45 minutes.

Jimmy Smith led the Reb attack with three hits, but Al Mendoza's bat proved the most damaging to the Sports as he drove in three of the five Rebel runs.

Jimmy Smith and Roy McKee led off the second inning for Baton Rouge with singles. McKee's lick getting through Roy Mantle in right to set the runners up at second and third. Al Mendoza drove both home with a single.

Neal then held the Rebels hitless until Bob Meador belted a single in the sixth, and then the Rebels clustered their hits again in the seventh. Smith, McKee, and Ken Adkins hit successive singles after one was out. Adkins' drive into left field scoring Smith. McKee tallied on Mendoza's sacrifice fly.

The Rebs bunched three more hits with an error in the eighth, but could manage only one run. Singles by Billy Walters and Meador, and Joe Garcia aboard on an error loaded the sacks with none out. Smith singled Walters across. Then Neal fanned McKee, and Adkins hit into a double play.

The Sports best scoring chances were in the fifth when Jim Johnston and Morris Millet were aboard on singles, again when Joe Miller and Millet were on with singles in the seventh, and when Keith Mitchell tripled with only one out in the ninth but couldn't score.

Wynn Presents Indians, 9-0, Whitewash Of Yanks

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Chico Carrasquel and Al Rosen each batted in three runs tonight as the Cleveland Indians waited 12 hits in support of righthander Early Wynn to beat the New York Yankees 9-0 and trim their American League lead to 3 1/2 games.

The largest crowd in the majors this season, 50,812, sat in on the Indians' fourth victory over New York in six tries this year.

Rosen, who homered with a man on in a three-run eighth that put the game well beyond reach, singled home walks by loser Whitely Ford. The stubby southpaw, looking for his eighth victory, took his third defeat. The Tribe tagged him for two runs in the second and three in the fifth, his last inning.

Patterson Storms Jackson To Claim Divided Decision

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Young Floyd D. Patterson stormed past the flailing fists of tireless Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson tonight to take a giant step toward the vacant heavyweight title on a split decision in 12 furious rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Both judges voted for the 21-year-old former Olympic champion by a solid margin but referee Harry Kessler scored it for Jackson. The biggest Garden crowd in years yelled its approval of the two judges' votes.

As a result of the victory, Patterson may get a September rematch with Archie Moore, the light heavy champ, for the title left vacant when Rocky Marciano retired.

The closest thing to a knock-down came in the fifth round when Patterson, the 2 to 1 favorite, flopped on the floor from a combination of a slip and a body punch by Jackson. Referee Kessler ruled it no knockdown.

Patterson weighed 178 Jackson 193 1/2.

Time after time Patterson's quick bursts of punches wobbled Jackson's knees only to have the Hurricane come back winging with body punches.

Don Johnson tripled with one on in the seventh inning yesterday afternoon to break a 4-4 deadlock and enable the Cubs to go on to defeat the Tigers, 8-4. Renwick was the winner while both Henton and Campbell served on the hill for the Tigers.

Cambell turned in a pair of hits for the Bengals.

V. F. W. found its first victory which was a 10-7 tumble of the Reds. Grubbs gave out only four safeties to the Crimson. McNabb and Russel were the top batsmen for V. F. W. and Young was the pacer for the losers. Slms was charged with the defeat. Oden and McClendon served behind the plate.

Sacrifice Fly Helping Sluggers In Both Leagues

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The sacrifice fly, back for the third straight season to boost batters' batting averages, is giving Stan Musial help just when he needs it.

Musial, off to one of his worst starts for the St. Louis Cardinals, leads the major leagues in sacrifice flies with five. Stan is batting only .287 and were the sacrifice flies counted as times at bat, as was the case from 1939 to 1954, he would be at .279.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press also revealed today that Jim Lemon and Karl Olson of Washington share the American League lead with four run-scoring sacrifice flies apiece. Lemon, at .290, would be hitting .292 without benefit of the sacrifice, while Olson, a .274 batter, would be at .267.

Dale Long of Pittsburgh, the National League's leading batter with an average of .382, has hit three SF's. Were they counted as times at bat he would have a mark of .375.

Alvin Dark of the New York Giants has lifted four sacrifice flies. The veteran shortstop is mired with a .253 percentage, six points higher than he would have been without the scoring fly balls.

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, who leads the American League in batting with .403, has hit only one sacrifice fly. Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, the NL's pacesetter in this department in 1954 and 1955, has none while Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox, last year's American League leader, has but one.

The rules instruct officials scorers to credit a batter with a sacrifice fly when, with less than two outs, he hits a fair fly ball which is:

1. Caught and a run scores after a catch, or
2. Dropped for an error, and a run scores, if in the official scorer's judgment the runner could have scored after the catch had the fly been caught.

Littler Takes Command In Round Robin

Maxwell, Kroll, Hawkins Gaining As Souchak Fades

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., June 8 (AP)—Gene Littler and Billy Maxwell, two of the most stolid, silent golfers in the business, rugged, steady-shooting Ted Kroll and Fred Hawkins, the low man on yesterday's totem pole, methodically destroyed par and their opposition today in the second and third rounds of the $15,000 Round Robin Golf Tournament.

At the end of the second day—with two uncertain rounds to go in the 90-hole man-against-man test—it was the unassuming Littler on top with a plus 34 count as his early rivals faded.

The level-headed young man from Singing Hills, Calif., the only one to stay clear of the Round Robin roller coaster for two days, shot impeccable rounds of 69-68 over the hilly Wyckly course.

He had shot an opening 69 yesterday to trail Mike Souchak by a point. But Souchak faded on the second round this morning, recovered on the last nine in the afternoon and wound up on the negative side. The same thing happened to Bob Rossburg, tied with Littler yesterday.

So it was the almost-overlooked Kroll who slipped into second place 16 points behind Littler at the day's end and Maxwell and Hawkins who were coming fast.

Maxwell and Hawkins, a pair of Texans, each shot a pair of 69's today on the 6,527-yard, par 37-35-72 course.

Maxwell picked up 22 points on the two rounds and could have had a lot more except for a couple of sour holes. Hawkins, in last place after the first round, gained 20 points but still showed a six-point deficit for the three rounds.

Kroll, with a third round of 34-32-66, best of the tournament, moved into runner-up spot with 18 points. He had been fourth yesterday but lost ground with a par 72 in the morning.

Gene Littler, Singing Valley, Calif. 69-68-66-29 plus 34.

Double Play Saves Delhi Legion's 3-2 Nip Of Mer Rouge

MER ROUGE, La., June 8 (Special)—The Delhi Legion Juniors eked out a 3-2 triumph over Mer Rouge's Legionaries here this afternoon. B. Thompson handed only four hits to the home town club but was forced to call for the assistance of a double-play in the bottom of the seventh inning to ring up the win.

Three errors, two walks, and a hit placed the Mer Rouge youngsters under a two run handicap in the first frame. Delhi waited until the third to add their winning tally on a base-on-balls, and a pair of errors.

The Mer Rouge Legionaries brought a lone run across in their half of the first stanza and shortened the margin with another marker in the bottom of the sixth.

200,000 Expected To Try To Beat Open Golf Champs

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 8 (AP)—A turnout which the professional Golfers Assn. expects to hit 200,000 will try to beat America's two open golf champions — Jack Fleck and Fay Crocker — in National Golf Day competition tomorrow.

A golfer can match shots with the champs by paying $1 and playing his own private course. He matches his score, minus handicap, with that of Fleck and Miss Crocker.

The two open champions will play their rounds at the Oak Hill Country Club here, scene of the men's national open championship next week. The course plays a par 35-35-70.

Players having better scores than the champions will receive medals inscribed "I beat Jack Fleck" or "I beat Fay Crocker", depending on the sex.

The feature was started in 1952 when Ben Hogan shot a 71 and 14,660 golfers won medal. Two years later Hogan fired a 64 and held the medals to 1,810.

In the last 10 years, anglers have taken 47, 873 salmon from rivers in Nova Scotia.

Missing Son Of News Columnist Returns Safely

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—News-paper columnist Dorothy Kilgallen's son turned up safe and sound today after a late date led to a report that he was missing.

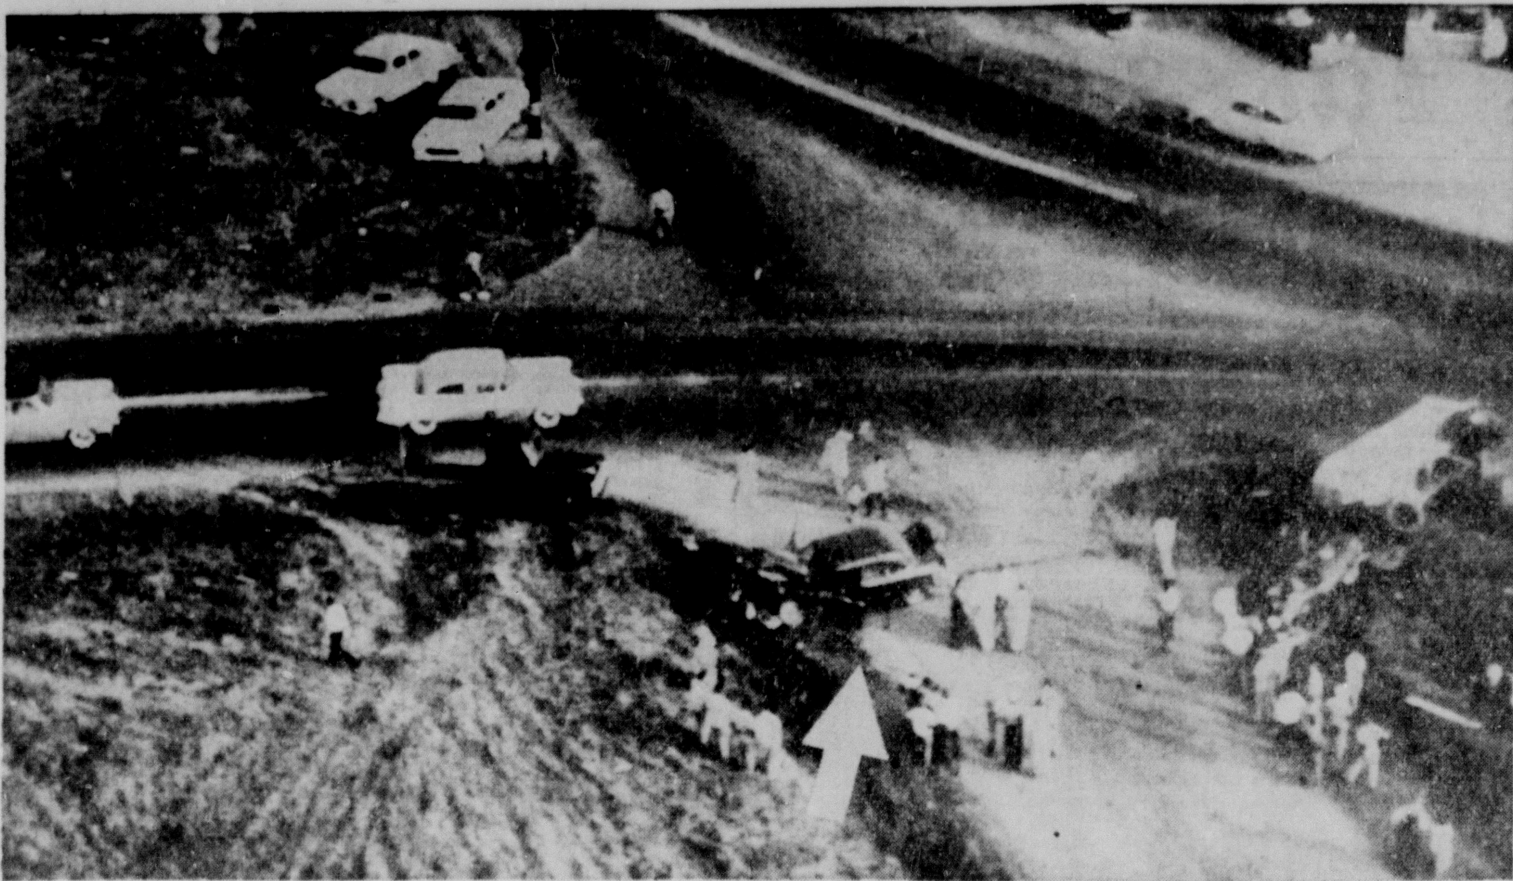

Shortly before noon, Miss Kilgallen filed a report with the Missing Persons Bureau listing Richard Kilgallen Jr., 14, as missing since 8:30 a.m. Thursday. A 14-state alarm was sent out for him.

In private life, Miss Kilgallen is Mrs. Richard Kilgallen, wife of the Broadway producer. Together, they form a husband-wife radio team and Miss Kilgallen also has a regular television spot on a quiz show.

It turned out, said Detective Lt. William Nevins, that Kilgallen attended his regular classes yesterday at a private school. Last night he was a guest at a party at a friend's home.

After the party, Nevins said, Kilgallen escorted a girl guest to her home at Douglaston, Queens, about eight miles out on Long Island from mid-Manhattan.

Nevins said it was late this morning before the youth got back to Manhattan and that he then loafed through the day in Central main feature—an American Legion proposal to increase federal pensions to $105 a month for World War I, World War II and Korean War veterans.

The administration estimated this plan, in its original form, would cost more than 77 billion dollars by the year 2000, an estimate which the Legion disputed as too high.

In folding the Legion plan into the bill, the committee decided to leave the income limits on eligibility at the present rates instead of raising them, as the Legion sought.

Chairman Olin Teague (D-Tex.) said the committee decided on a single-package bill as result of what he called "lack of leadership" among the veterans organizations in presenting their proposals. The veterans groups had been squabbling over whose bill should come first.

Teague, who said he voted against the omnibus measure, told reporters the committee yielded to "an overwhelming number of mandates for liberalization of veterans' benefits without any dunderance from the veterans organizations as to priorities and basic policy."

In addition to the Legion's pension plan, a committee spokesman said these provisions were adopted for House action at today's closed-door committee session.

1. A Disabled American Veterans backed proposal which would increase compensation to veterans for service-connected injury generally by 10 to 15 per cent.

One hundred per cent service disabled veterans would have their compensation raised from $181 to $250 a month.

A committee spokesman estimated this provision alone would cost about a half billion dollars the first year.

2. Pensions for Spanish war veterans' widows would be raised from $54 and $67 a month to $75 a month.

3. A provision to raise the basic pension rates for widows of World War I, II, and Korean War veterans from $50.40 a month to $75 a month, with corresponding increases for dependents.

4. A proposal, part of the principle in a pension bill backed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, for a 20 per cent pension premium for veterans who served overseas.

5. An amendment to give widows of World War II and Korean War veterans more liberal compensation treatment, which is now accorded World War I widows when the husband dies.

6. An increase from $150 to $200 in the federal burial allowance for a veteran.

Welfare Board

To pay the increase, the board approved a supplementary allocation of almost $800,000 for next month's old age checks.

Also approved was a total welfare allotment of 11 million dollars for August, of which 7.4 million will go to old age assistance recipients.

In a statement after the meeting, Mrs. Parker said the increase "confirms to the express wishes of Gov. Long."

A bill to make the $65-$120 payment permanent has already passed the House and is awaiting Senate action. The measure is supported by Gov. Long to fulfill a campaign pledge.

Assistant Welfare Director Otis Edwards cautioned the board that sales tax exemption proposals advanced at the current legislative session could endanger the increased old age assistance schedule. The bulk of the state's portion of welfare funds comes from state sales tax revenue.

"If all those exemption bills pass," Edwards warned, "we'll not have enough money to pay $65 a month old age assistance."

Mrs. Parker asked Mrs. Wilma Lockhart, the governor's executive secretary, to inform the governor of Edwards' statement. Mrs. Lockhart represented Long at the meeting.

Under another bill before the Legislature revamping the Welfare Board, the governor's executive counsel or executive secretary could represent him on the board.

Other members attending today's meeting were Miss Bernice Edwards of Ponchatoula, re-appointed by the governor, and J. V. Unverzagt of Crowley, a new appointee.

Other members either resigned to comply with a legislative request or were addressed out of office in a Long-backed move against members who failed to heed the request. The governor has not yet appointed the board's entire membership.

This softening language was proposed by Rep. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.). The amended amendment was then approved on another standing vote of 183-3.

An attempt to write into the legislation a requirement that the President report to Congress his findings on Yugoslav aid was defeated 96-92 on a standing vote.

Sharp debate preceded the voting.

As the legislation now stands in the House, it provides approximately $3,800,000,000 for the Eisenhower administration's mutual security program, an effort to strengthen America's allies against any threats of Communist aggression.

If the Senate votes more money for the program than the House does, the legislation will go to a Joint Conference Committee, where the administration hopes a compromise may be reached.

$3.5 Billion Loss In Stocks Blamed On Ike's Illness

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—News of the President's illness opened the floodgates of selling today and sent the stock market down in its hardest fall in eight months.

On the basis of the movement of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks it is estimated that the entire September - October decline erased an estimated 20 billion dollars from the quoted value of securities on the New York Stock Exchange. All that was regained and the market went to new highs.

Today's fall wiped out an estimated 3 1/2 billion dollars. By contrast, the first drop triggered by the Sept. 24 heart attack chopped off an estimated 13 billion.

Brokers today took a relatively calm view of the situation. Many advised a "wait and see" attitude.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped back $3.00, to $177.00. The fall was the greatest since Oct. 10 when the average was off $4.60. Currently the average is comfortably above the 1956 low of $171.60 touched last January.

The industrial component of the average today was down $4.30, rails were off $3.20 and utilities lost 60 cents.

There were 1,192 individual issues traded of which 101 managed to advance while 976 declined. Two stocks made new highs and 153 touched new lows for the year.

Volume quickly stepped up to 3,630,000 shares, second largest total of the year topped by 3,900,000 shares changing hands Feb. 29. Yesterday there were 1,630,000 shares traded in a higher market.

Corporate bonds were steady. U. S. governments were higher.

Highlights From The Ticker Tape

Stock prices suffered their sharpest break this year yesterday on the news that President Eisenhower had been taken to a hospital. A late rally covered some of the losses.

Immediate reaction to news that the President is suffering an intestinal disorder and has been taken to Walter Reed Hospital as a "precautionary measure" was a sell-off which carved more than $4 billion from market values in a market reminiscent of the September 28 break which followed the heart attack.

Directors of the Motorola Company are scheduled to meet for dividend action on June 15th and it is believed that the regular 37 1/2 cent quarterly payment will be authorized.

Revised stock appraisal of the Scott Paper company states that stock is an investment quality issue which offers good long term growth possibilities. The stock usually sells on a liberal price-earnings ratio in contrast with other paper company equities. Another record high in sales and earnings for the first quarter of 1956 reflects both the benefits of the company's acquisitions and the increasing demand for its products. Based upon consolidated results, sales for the first quarter ended March 31, 1956 were $66.8 million vs $63.4 million for the like 1955 quarter.

The propeller division of Curtis-Wright at Caldwell, N.J., has been awarded an additional $9,000,000 contract for turboelectric propellers for new Douglas C-133A turboprop transport plane.

Volume was believed somewhat larger as the trade was a little more active in December and March with a large unfixed call position in those months sales of cloth have been resulting in purchases primarily in December and March. Old July tended a little easier on liquidation. Liverpool was unchanged to up 9 cent points with new crop months a little stronger.

A weak stock market had very little effect in cotton. The secretary of commerce today predicted that business expenditures for new plants and equipment would reach a record breaking 35 billion dollars this year. Employment in May climbed to 65 million people.

Hearings will start shortly on the administration's effort to have congress approve a plan whereby surplus agricultural products may be bartered with Soviet controlled countries. If approved, top level discussions between Russia and the United States may take place.
